Freedom To Parboil Threatened In Japan As Hunger Increases

Interpretation By

James D Whtie

(Associated Press War Analyst)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A major news item out of Japan this week was a brief item noting that it's no longer safe to leave your clothes lying around in the bath house.

Someone is likely to walk off with your duds, and you may do the Japanese equivalent of going home in a barrel.

If this column is general it represents a revolution—distinctly for the worse—in Japanese social behavior.

Except for a few professionals, thievery in Japan proper used to be rare, although Japanese did some colossal thieving abroad.

But the Japanese bath house was a place where you left your clothes lying around as did everyone else, without a thought that they might be disturbed.

The bath house was more than that. It was a club for the common man, about his only indulgence, and about the only place he could get away from it all.

The cop he feared by day became in the evening, in the altogether, just as naked as anyone else. Who can say how much more unstable the Japanese would have been had they not had this national habit of relaxing in hot water?

There were rules, unwritten but strictly observed. You scrubbed and rinsed, and when you were clean you dunked yourself in water that would blister if you weren't used to it. Then you soaked, dissolved and emerged a new man. Foreigners who loitered the big tank without first washing thoroughly were regarded as ignorant or anti-Social.

It is that stealing a man's pants while he's simmering, in Japan, represent, not only a spread of thievery, but the invasion of one of the most stable of Japanese institutions.

There are reasons for it. One, of

BOND BUYING IS FAR TOO LITTLE

Public Lethargic; Ouachita's Past Proud Record Challenged

Ouachita parish is still lagging miserably in the purchase of War Bonds. The Parish War Bond Finance Committee announced Saturday that only $90,903.25 has been expended in E Bonds out of a quota of $385,000.

If this parish is to hold up its past record for making quotas it will be necessary for the public to purchase on an average of $20,000 of bonds each and every day that the drive is in progress, stated C. D. Oakley, co-chairman of the parish committee.

Mr. Oakley stated that it is the patriotic duty of each individual to purchase as many bonds as he possibly can.

This is the last job of the kind and the Victory Loan is absolutely required. The boys have won the war and it is now up to us to do our duty, back home.

Bond sales by Twin City salespeople to date follow: The Palace—Miss Mollie Michael, $7,625; Mrs. Emma Rosenbaum, $5,075; Miss Mabel Horal, $1,250; Miss Ola Bice, $1,200; Mrs. Lorette French, $200; Miss Katharine Wyatt, $500; Miss Alice Bice, $200; Mrs. Jessie Smith, $200 and Miss Harriet Hirsch, $50. Sol Hirsch & Sons: Mrs. Dolly N. Lobman, $200; Morgan's Tailoring: Miss Pauline Morris, $750; The Toggery—Mrs. Grace Noble, $4,075; M. Kolski Jeweler Co.: Mrs. Ruth Green, $2,300; Allen's Millinery—A. J. Benn, $1,000; Fichi's: Mrs. Riley Warner, $175; Lemle's: Miss Agnes Soloman, $3,100; Johnnie S. L. S. U. BOARD TO BE GIVEN FINDINGS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A "fact-finding" committee, which has concluded its investigation of faculty resignations at Louisiana State University Medical School here tomorrow would be submitted to the L. S. U. Board of Supervisors next Friday.

E. Monnet Lemle, committee chairman, said the committee had requested the entire board to meet in Baton Rouge to receive the report tomorrow.

The case under investigation was the reason for the recent resignation of 27 faculty members, most of them professors, said Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, executive dean of the medical school.

Lemle said the committee, in its executive session, had taken 300 pages of testimony, and that from first copy it would be ready in approximately awaiting the final transcription.

The chairman said the committee had been accorded full cooperation in its investigation and that "we are leaving in the same spirit of cooperation which all of our deliberations here have emanated."

He said the committee had been given assurances that the school will go on and that is most helpful."

Warplanes Also Assaulting Soerabaja; Many Reported Killed

NO WIDESPREAD FLAREUPS IN EVIDENCE IN NATION

BATAVIA, Java, Sunday, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Indonesian reports said today that Soerabaja and vicinity had been "devastated" and "thousands of Indonesian soldiers and civilians killed by "continued British attacks from the air, sea and land."

By Leif Erickson

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 10. —(AP)— British warplanes and artillery blasted at Soerabaja and Indian troops attacked toward the heart of the great naval base today in battle against Indonesians who rejected a British ultimatum for surrender of their weapons.

A Nationalist spokesman declared British naval guns were bombarding the city of 500,000 inhabitants, that many were killed, and that families were fleeing and carrying out a scorched earth policy.

Strong Indonesian forces were reported marching on Soerabaja from inland Jogjakarta, Nationalist stronghold 175 miles to the southwest.

British declared their initial advance met only light sniping and machine gun fire. An official statement said the shelling and bombing were ordered because Indian troops had suffered casualties from stiffened Indonesian resistance, and "stronger measures were necessary."

Shelling started at 6 a. m. today (5 p. m. CST Friday). The deadline hour set by ultimatum for the Indonesians to surrender their arms—preparing the way for the infantry.

FIVE BODIES FOUND AT CRASHED PLANE

PRUDEN, Tenn., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Five bodies were found late at the site of a plane crash near the top of Log Mountain near the Kentucky-Tennessee line a Maryville Funeral Home employe said today after visiting the scene of the accident.

He said the bodies could not be removed until the tragedy was investigated by army officials, probably coming here from Louisville. The man refused use of his name.

American Officers Punished By Japanese At Shirakawa Prison

Routed Out Of Bed Often At Night To Stand At Attention

THIS IS MY STORY

By General Jonathan M. Wainwright

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

The heartless Japs at Shirakawa prison camp quickly took steps to punish my brave officers who stood up for their rights under the Geneva Convention and refused to engage in menial work.

These officers were no longer permitted to lie or sit on their bunks before bedtime. They could not assemble in groups of more than two. They could not visit outside their barracks. All their entertainment was cancelled. Two or three times every night they were routed out of bed, had to dress, go to the parade grounds and stand a roll call. They were always kept waiting in the dark for a Jap officer to appear. When they were dismissed they came back, undressed, went back to bed for another hour or two, and then were summoned again.

Then the Japs declared that a sanitation emergency existed, involving the health of the entire camp, and ordered our officers to cut out all grass, brush and trees in a large area around the camp. This was their program to destroy mosquito-breed-

OBJECT TO DELTA LINE PROPOSALS

'Feeder' Routes Hit Plan To Place Monroe On Two Flights

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Small "feeder" airlines today objected to Delta Airline proposals to place Monroe, La., on two flights daily between New Orleans and Shreveport.

Both Republic and Southern Airlines contested the Delta petition, subject discussed before a Civil Aeronautics Board regional hearing.

Southern counsel asked Delta vice-president and General Manager C. E. Woolman if an integration of "feeder" schedules with present Delta services wouldn't be more economical.

Woolman said "no," that his company had the facilities for the two additional routes sought, and that the 37 minutes more flying time between Dallas and New Orleans, on the proposed route, would be at a "negligible" cost.

To the present four routes between Shreveport, Alexandria, Baton Rouge and New Orleans, Delta proposes to add two additional schedules, running from Shreveport to New Orleans via Baton Rouge.

Delta entered objections today to proposals by Eastern Air Lines to give non-stop service between Dallas-Fort Worth and Atlanta-Birmingham, and by National Air Lines to extend its route from New Orleans to Dallas.

In both cases Delta contended that its own present service, together with additional flights it said would be scheduled if necessary was adequate. [illegible] traffic in the area.

ATOMIC ENERGY BOARD OPPOSED

Nine Committee Members Says It Is Countrary To American Way

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Nine members of the House military committee declared today that establishment of a permanent federal atomic energy commission as now proposed "would undermine the very foundation upon which our national life is built."

Legislation setting up the commission to control the use of development of nuclear energy already has been approved by a majority of the committee. It is expected to reach the floor soon.

The nine dissenters including one Democrat and eight Republicans, issued a sharply critical report urging that:

1. The House send the bill back for further study and revision.

2. The measure should be of "interim character" and provide only for a temporary agency.

3. Powers of the agency should be greatly reduced particularly to allow [illegible] control and supervision.

Their action came after the committee majority had recommended speedy action to set up a commission [illegible] the commission with broad authority over atomic energy.

URGES COOPERATION IN RECRUITING MEN

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Gov. Jimmie H. Davis in a proclamation today urged cooperation with the U. S. army's recruiting campaign seeking 50,000 men from the Eighth service command area of which Louisiana is a part.

The governor's proclamation said the army is making a special appeal for the reenlistment of World War II veterans who held Non-rated 21 may return to the service at the rating they held at the time of their discharge.

"Even though the victory has been won," Davis said, "it is now up to the United States and its Allies to neutralize and rehabilitate the agents of nations and lead in establishing them as peaceful and responsible governments. Occupation forces composed of highly trained and competent men are necessary to carry out these tasks."

Russia Watches From Afar As Truman Meets Attlee And King

TIME SPEEDED UP WHEN 2 VISITORS ARRIVE EARLY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—While Russian leaders watched from afar, President Truman and Prime Ministers Attlee of Britain and MacKenzie King of Canada pulled up easy chairs in the White House this afternoon and began discussing what to do about the atomic bomb.

This presented a speed-up in the schedule. As late as last night it had called for the talks to start Sunday.

But Attlee arrived early this morning by plane from London, MacKenzie King came in from the same capital by ship and train and the decision was made to start the conference at once. It will continue through next week.

It seemed probable that other subjects than atomic energy and explosives would be discussed by Mr. Truman and the British prime minister. Foremost on the list of possibilities is that of Jewish immigration into Palestine.

An Associated Press dispatch from London said it was reported that Britain and the United States already had agreed upon creation of a joint committee to deal with the Palestine problem and the related issue of displaced European Jews, but that Attlee wanted to talk it over with President Truman before any announce-

FELLOW SCOUTS REMEMBER PAL

Donate $10 To War Fund In Memory Of Percy Oortch

A most expressive and touching tribute was paid to the memory of Percy Oortch, young lad whose life was snuffed out the past week under the wheels of a school bus, when his Boy Scout troop made a donation of $10 to the United War Fund in his memory. The death of this fine little fellow, enthusiastic member of a Sunday school class, of the Boy Scout troop and of the seventh grade at Ouachita parish grammar school, cast a shadow over many persons. Fellow Boy Scouts thoughtfully decided to make a donation in his name.

Perhaps if some other groups would do similarly, the War Fund chest would be filled to overflowing.

ARRESTED PREACHER'S FRIENDS STAGE RIOT

PRAGUE, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Persons protesting the arrest and confinement of the Rev. Josef Tiso, former puppet president of Slovakia smashed windows and distributed leaflets in Bratislava today.

Remnants of Tiso's disbanded Hlinka guard were believed to have participated. Bratislava police were alerted to prevent further disorders.

Several shops displayed photographs of Tiso in clerical garb and handcuffed. The pictures showed the priest's arrival in Bratislava from Prague, where he was turned over to Czechoslovak authorities by the Americans.

Tiso and other members of the puppet government face trial in a national court.

Communists Block Manchuria Gates

Intensified Fighting Is Reported Far Inland; Wounded Begin Trickling In Even Before Big Guns Open Fire

By Spencer Moosa

CHUNGKING, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Artillery and mortars thundered today along the coastal end of China's great wall, where the Chinese Communists' best divisions blocked the path of hundreds of Nationalist troops into industrially-rich Manchuria.

The booming of heavy weapons first was heard during the night in the U. S. marine-guarded port of Chinwangtao, Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported, signalling the first heavy fighting in the undeclared civil war.

The action began near Shanhaikwan, coastal anchor of the wall north of Chinwangtao where the Reds' crack Eighth route army is solidly entrenched.

The wounded had been trickling in from the front even before the big guns opened fire.

Intensified fighting was reported far inland, and also flared south of Chinwangtao along the railroad to Tientsin.

An unconfirmed Chinese report said one Nationalist platoon was annihilated near a first-aid station set up to care for wounded at Nationalist-held Pehtaihe Junction, 15 miles south of Chingwangtao.

Although almost encircled by the fighting which—until today—has been sporadic, U. S. marines had been involved in no new incidents, Bergholz said.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commandr of American forces in China, said today in his first Chungking News Conference since his return from Washington that all American forces will be out of China by early spring, leaving only a 6,000-man military mission.

They will not, he emphasizd, help the Nationalists reach vital Manchuria, from which the Russians are withdrawing and in which the Chinese Reds hope to build a vast, militarily and industrially powerful "base area."

Wedemeyer said marines would remain "non-partisan," and would not make any further landings in North China or move to any other points from their present stations at Peiping, Tientsin, Tangku (near Tientsin), Chinwangtao and Tsingtao.

Communists in Chungking, where peace talks have thus far been fruitless reiterated complaints against American "intervention." One Red spokesman protested against any American financial, as well as military aid, declaring that any loan to the Nationalist government would "prolong this civil war."

In the North-China inland province of Shansi and in Suiyuan province of Inner Mongolia fighting raged in what a semi-official dispatch called "bloody, see-saw battles."

One dispatch reported recapture by the Nationalists of the important railway junction of Shinkiachwang in Hopeh Province—although the government never had previously acknowledged its loss. It is a strategic point on the north-south Peiping-Hankow railroad.

An official dispatch also recorded the arrival of "large numbers" of Na-

ASSERTS FORCED DRAFT IS DEAD

Reporters Find Line-Up 13 To 12 For Postponing Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Truman's request for universal military training legislation skated on thin Congressional ice today as opponents claimed enough strength to kill it off quickly.

The test may come next Tuesday when the House Military Committee resumes hearings interrupted last week by a surprise move of opponents to block consideration until next year.

"You can say the bill is dead," Rep. Dewey Short, Republican, Missouri, said then.

It was Short who sought last Thursday to defer further hearings until next year, in the midst of questioning of Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. A technicality prevented a showdown then.

When Patterson returns for further questioning Tuesday, short told reporters, he will renew his motion for deferment of consideration until 1946, or until after the Senate acts.

"We have the votes to do it," he said.

Short and his followers claim 14 of the 27 committee votes, eight Republicans and six Democrats, with two Democrats listed as undecided.

Reporters who polled committee sentiment found the line-up 13 to 12 for postponing action, with two doubtfuls.

Chairman May, Democrat, Kentucky, who has introduced a bill to carry out President Truman's request for prompt action, conceded that the outcome was uncertain.

"It will be close," was all May would say.

The Kentuckian threatened to make public the committee roll call after Tuesday's session. Usually such a vote is taken behind closed doors and the roll-call kept secret.

Not all of those expected to support Short's motion are opposed to universal military training. Some believe action should be deferred until Congress decides what to do about proposals to merge the Army and the Navy.

Others feel that the Senate should act first, inasmuch as the House has passed controversial measures at the military committee's request only to have them snagged in the Senate.

One committee member said he believed the committee would approve the peacetime draft measure if the Senate acted first.

SNIPING, SABOTAGE HIT SAIGON AREA

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Sniping and sabotage broke out anew in the Saigon area today as strong French forces, armed with American lend-lease equipment, continued to clean up newly captured Tay Ninh, Annamese resistance center 58 miles northwest of here.

An Anglo-French statement said the Annamese set fire to a fuel dump at the Saigon airport and burned up unused cinema during the early morning hours, while firing flared up in the powerhouse area of Cholon.

It also reported sniping near Thudaumot airfield where Japanese forces were concentrated for disarmament.

The capture of Tay Ninh, opening the first overland link with food-rich Cambodia, was announced yesterday after a bitter battle in which the 9th and 11th French colonial regiments and elements of the veteran French Second armored division took part.

The fighting raged late into the night in a bamboo forest six miles from Tay Ninh, where the French encountered the focal point of Annamese resistance. The French said they had seized "a large number of important documents," and indication that they may have discovered the long-sought headquarters of the Viet Minh, Annamese Nationalist movement.

The French were using U. S.-made equipment, including tanks.

The re-opening of a land route to Cambodia will expedite the movement of food supplies to Saigon. Up to now, the only way Cambodia's rich food surpluses could reach here was by Japanese-manned river convoys.

HUNDREDS TRAINED TO FOMENT STRIFE

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Japanese trained hundreds of Asiatics to foment strife in their homelands and explosions from "intellectual land mines" are going off now, particularly in the Dutch East Indies, Brig. Gen. Elliott R. Thorpe said today.

General MacArthur's chief of counter-intelligence told a news conference the Americans had uncovered a propaganda school at American-built St. Paul's University in Tokyo where the Japanese during the war trained Japanese and other Asiatics "in discontent."

The Japanese thus prepared the day when the Allies returned to the lands the empire conquered early in the war. The general said similar explosions of Japanese-fostered Asiatic Nationalism likely would continue "for some time to come."

Thorpe declared the so-called "school for greater East Asia Culture" had for its pupils Malayans, Chinese, Koreans, Burmans and other Nationalities besides Japanese.

He added the Japanese also tried to cultivate the Indonesian Nationalist Leader Soekarno, and Subhas Chandra Bose, Indianman Nationalist who was killed in an airplane crash more than a year ago.

Thorpe said the Japanese Pan-Asiatic propaganda never got to first base in the Philippines.

The Japanese, Thorpe continued hoped to drive a wedge between the Allies by arousing native populations to revolt against colonial rule, taking advantage of sympathy in Allied countries for the underdog.

Among the Japanese people, on the other hand, government propaganda fostered subservience rather than discontent.

To transform this subservience into independence will be a long job, Thorpe predicted—"anything short of a 20-year occupation would be futile.

"We have got to educate the people to stand guard over their liberal thinkers," he said.

ELIMINATION OF AGENCIES URGED

Truman Advisor Proposes Dispensing Of As Many As Possible

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Elimination "as far as possible" of every federal emergency agency by June 30, 1946, was recommended to President Truman today by George E. Allen, a special assistant named to study this subject.

To accomplish this, Allen urged immediate appointment of a director of liquidation with this prime aim

In an 80-page report made public by the White House, Allen said it is important that the government "act rapidly to insure an orderly efficient, and humane transition from wartime to peacetime organization."

He emphasized that the 126,937 employes of the 25 emergency agencies as of last September be given special consideration in the liquidation process, including coverage by unemployment insurance.

Allen said the "few agencies" which must continue beyond the end of this fiscal year, such as those dealing with prices and other reconversion problems, should be coordinated under reconversion Director John W. Snyder's office or transferred to permanent agencies at the earliest possible time.

"Emergency services vital to our national welfare," he said, "must not be abolished, but should be made permanent. Funds for scientific research, such as that which developed the atomic bomb, should be utilized for peacemtime progress, and might even be increased for the benefit of all mankind."

Besides a Director of Liquidation, Allen recommended appointment of liquidators for each agency and an administrative advisory committee to advise the director. The latter would consist of representatives of the treasury, budget, surplus property, national archives and civil service.

While it is essential to "retrench promptly and to economize whenever possibye," Allen said:

"Seemingly unnecessary public agencies might have to survive much longer than unprofitable private enterprises, since economic considerations are not necessarily the only factors involved."

For protection of personnel Allen recommended:

Thirty days' notice prior to termination of service, unemployment insurance, transportation home for those unable to find new jobs, payment of retirement pay deductions within 30 days of separation and letters of commendation for worthy employes released.

Charles VI of France issued an edict in 1397 forbidding common people to play cards on working days.

BETTY HALE IS ELECTED QUEEN

N. J. C. Young Woman To Reign Over Home Coming Events

Election of the queen who will reign over homecoming festivities at Northeast Junior College on Friday, November 16, held the spotlight on the campus Friday. From four nominees designated at a special assembly in Brown Hall auditorium Wednesday, Miss Betty Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Hale of Glenmar avenue, was chosen queen by student vote. Running second in the election was Miss Kathryn Gregory, home economics major from Camden, Ark., who automatically won the title as maid of honor to her majesty.

Other members of the royal court were chosen by football players who are candidates for graduation this school year. The list of maids and their escorts comprises:

Miss Doris Burdeaux and Floyd Temple; Miss Maxine Jones and Fred Higginbotham; Mrs. Thomas H. Sands and Mr. Sands; Miss Yvonne Lusk and Johnny Johnson; Miss Patsy Snelling and Malcolm Young; Miss Phyllis Fortuna and Gordon Grant.

Miss Hale chose as her escort Meade Evans, and Miss Gregory named Stanley Passman as her escort. Both players are among candidates for graduation.

Crowning of the queen will be one of the highlights of colorful features planned for the half-time ceremonies at the football game between the Northeast Junior College Indians and the Holmes Junior College (Mississippi) team that is scheduled at Brown stadium at 8 p. m. Other attractions will be music by the college band under the direction of Harvey Nelson, and intricate formations on the field by the Indianettes in colorful costumes and led by Miss Libby Siegle.

All N. J. C. students who have resigned from military service are requested by B. S. Barnes, chairman of the steering committee for homecoming events, to sit in one group as they are to be given special recognition on this occasion.

The game will be a clash between two championship teams. The Indians' victory last week over the Cowboys from John McNeese Junior College, Lake Charles, gave the championship to the local Tribe. A similar title was won by Holmes Junior College in the tilt with Jones County Junior College last week in Laurel, Miss., when the champions came off with a win of 48-12.

Final attraction will be the post-game dance to be held in the college gymnasium from 10:30 to 12 o'clock in honor of both teams. This informal affair will be open to friends and former students of the two schools and their guests.

Special visitors who will be here for the homecoming celebration will include President W. B. Hatcher, Dean Fred C. Frey and Dean S. A. Caldwell, all of Louisiana State University.

Invitations have been sent to parish superintendents and supervisors, high school principals, teachers, members of senior classes, cheer leaders, football squads, editors and business managers of high school newspapers in this section of the state to attend the day's festivities as guests of the college.

Open house will be held in the social room of the student center between 4 and 6 p. m.

Plans for the annual homecoming are being completed by a committee comprising faculty, staff and students. Yvonne Lusk, president of the student council; Jo Layne Jarrell, sophomore; and Edward Brown Jr., freshman, represented the student body on the steering committee.

Anticlimax To Victory

Enough evidence has accumulated since V-E Day to permit the reluctant opinion that the American military government in Germany has missed doing the job that it set out to do and that was expected of it.

Perhaps it is foolhardy to venture a black-and-white opinion on a complicated situation from a distance of several thousand miles. But events of the last seven months tell a story of something considerably short of success.

There was, for instance, General Patton's amazing press conference which preceded his dismissal as Third Army commander. Later developments have indicated that his unconcern with the denazification program was not unique. Light-hearted toleration of Nazi thought and Nazi party members apparently has been the chief factor in the unhappy difference between American policy and practice in Germany.

Then there was General Eisenhower's report of growing unrest in the American zone, which he admitted might develop into organized revolt. There were stories of "fraternizing" GIs and American officers with German mistresses, absorbing Nazi viewpoints from companions still saturated with Hitler philosophy and Hitler worship.

Now one American correspondent in Germany writes that the Army is eager to wash its hands of the whole matter and act mainly as a police force while a civilian staff takes over the job of governing. Another correspondent reports that, having accomplished virtually nothing toward re-educating German youth, we have turned that important task back to the Germans.

The explanations for this apparent failure reach from the brass hats in Washington to the doughfeet in Frankfurt. It seems that there are disagreements between top figures in the Army and in various government departments. It also appears that General Eisenhower is having trouble in putting his policies into practice.

It is not beyond comprehension, either, that the same staff of officers who carried out a brilliant strategic program to complete victory might lack the understanding, training and inclination to carry out a program of military government with intelligence and efficiency.

Then there is the anxiety of the forces in Germany to come home, and the government's effort to bring them home as quickly as possible. This seems to have cost the American command abroad some experienced officers, and to have left it with a good many restless, discontented enlisted men.

All this is disquieting news to anyone who believes that to allow the German national mentality to remain arrogant, contemptuous, unpurged and unchastened is to threaten world peace. Before Germany's defeat almost all Americans, military and civilian alike, believed that. There were great plans to insure that "it would never happen again." Now those fears and plans seem to be pushed aside for more immediate matters.

It is clearly time that a civilian government took over for us in Germany. We can only hope that it will do a more thorough job of denazifying and re-educating, and that it isn't tackling the job too late.

IS PEACE A MYTH?

This Armistice Day of 1945 finds the world again in a chastened, bewildered mood, wondering if, after all of the dreams that have been dreamed, the prayers that have been offered, the blood that has been shed, peace is nothing more than a myth.

It was something like Resurrection Day, that November morning twenty-seven years ago, when the guns were stilled and the fighting ceased, and the word "peace," so long unspoken, was again on the tongues and in the hearts of men.

The world was convinced, in those distant days, that it would never again witness such a visitation of calamity. Ten million had died. The sins of the war lords, the unspeakable blunders of the statesmen, had been washed away in a blood atonement by young men whose bodies mingled with the churned earth at Verdun, in the Argonne, on the Somme.

The war to end war had been fought and won and never again, so the world believed, would youths be taken from their fathers' homes to stop with their bodies the onward march of invaders.

But the history of the last twenty-seven years proved otherwise. A more calamitous war than that of 1914-18 has been fought and won, and the world now wonders whether this conflict, unlike that other, has brought the promise of a new and brighter life under the principles of the brotherhood of man.

Americans will continue to hope that the future does not hold the grim necessity of more war. And they will be sustained by the conviction that the idea of peace still lives.

UNIMPRESSED

The British habit of understatement usually fills an American either with admiration or a choking, frustrated desire to kick somebody squarely in the trousers, depending upon the Americans temperament. But whatever the reaction, it must be admitted that King George's recent comment on the atomic bomb, understates the sum of British low-pressure pronouncements to date.

Complimenting British scientists on their part in harnessing this potentially world-destroying power, His Majesty said that his pride was "tinged with apprehension."

If the unhappy day should ever come when the British Isles were subjected to the devastating power of atomic fission, it may be that the world will finally see what happens when the irresistible force meets the immovable object.

Nor are we giving up entirely on the nation that rode out the Nazi blitz with contemptuous imperturbability, and whose sovereign now contemplates the possibility of wholesale disintegration with just the merest shade of concern.

When a producer undertakes a picture with a London or Paris background, he hires technical experts and spends heaven-knows-how-many thousands in research to make everything absolutely authentic. Furniture, buildings, costume and landscapes must be true to the story's locale; if they weren't, some Englishman or Frenchman might object. But when the same producer makes a picture laid in America, he usually says "hang authenticity" and shoots his scenes in the first "location" available. Right now, we're undergoing a deluge of pictures supposedly laid in Oklahoma—but I have yet to see one that features terrain typical of the Sooner State. One film even utilized the snow-capped Sierra Nevada for pictorial effect! Let's have a little more "authenticity" in pictures dealing with America, too.

Time was when a kid star's parents could spend the moppet's money to suit their own fancy. Extravagance was the rule; wise investment was the exception—with the net result that most of the child stars ended their careers with nothing to show for their stardom but a few faded scrap books. Then the State of California enacted laws which gave the courts jurisdiction over the financial affairs of minors. Just the other day, Superior Judge Henry Willis, by official decree, prevented Peggy Ann Garner, aged 13, from buying a $40,000 house. His decision may have been criticized by some—but I'll bet it won approval from Jackie Coogan, for instance. He, after earning millions, found them dissipated when he reached maturity.

Republic bosses, deciding that the title "Concerto" would be box-office poison "because theatre-goers won't understand it," have re-dubbed their No. 1 musical of the year "I've Always Loved You." I wonder if they bothered to check on the fate of "Humoresque," "Intermezzo" and "Pygmalion," all of which were box-office smashes. Hollywood might be surprised to discover how well educated John and Jane Public really are.

Murder mysteries with Hollywood settings are the newest cycle—and turning a bunch of amateur sleuths loose in this town can be dangerous. They may uncover some of the skeletons in stellar closets.

OUR CHILDREN

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

"Tell us how you would give children religious instruction," says a mother and I am glad to explain my ideas on the subject. Children must have religious instruction if they are to be well-rounded human beings. If they are to have what is essential to their success and happiness in this world they must have fine characters and giving them religious instruction is the soundest way ever found to achieve that end.

They need to learn the creed and the prayers and the ritual of the church of their fathers, and they need to know something of their church's history. But we must not stop there. That is not enough. We must instil in their minds and hearts a love for righteousness and that is built on the practice of right doing.

Children learn to know what is right to do and what is wrong, by experiences, their own and others. When they do what is right their conscience approves though other folk may not approve. When they do what is wrong, their conscience gives them no rest though others may applaud. Conscience must be cultivated and the cultivation of a quickened conscience is the result of religious education.

How are children to learn the difference between right and wrong save in their experiences? Their teachers, parents and school teachers and clergy interpret actions for them, point out where they are good, and if need be where they are bad. That teaching coupled always with the example of fine practice set before them by their teachers is the best.

We want to have children who respect morality, who have a conscience so tender that it winces at wrong doing personal or another's. Children who speak up for the right and who denounce the wrong anytime, anywhere possible. We want to rear a generation who fear God and follow Him.

Religious observance is fine, teaching the creed and the prayers are essential, attendance at service is necessary but the greatest influence lies with the father and mother of the children. Children hear, see and feel with the experiences they have with their parents. What they do speaks louder to their souls than any teaching anybody else can do. And what important people do, what the neighbors do, what the leading officials do, judged from the moral standard, affects children's attitudes.

The church, the school, the home and the community must bear, each a share in the formation of the character of youth. There are signs that indicate the need of a quickened adult conscience in this matter.

Is another baby expected in your family, and have you told the other children yet? Dr. Peter tells parents just how to prepare older brothers and sisters for the new arrival in his leaflet P-22, "Relationship to Other Children."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 18 Scripture: Act. 11:19-30; 12:24-13:3; Ephesians 4:11-16

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Outreach" is a good word for the Christian church. It began in outreach, it spreads to the ends of the then-known ancient world, and in every age when the life of the church has been active and true to the spirit of the early church and its Founder, outreach programs, conferences and activities has been its deepest characteristic.

Jesus reached out for His first disciples. He did not take those nearest at hand, or those among the officially religious to whom religious leaders might naturally be drawn. He reached out into the common life, and took fishermen and others of lowly but honest occupations to be of the inner circle.

He wanted workers, and those who would be leaders of men reaching out and gathering others into the Christian way. He appointed the Twelve and sent 70 others along with them, and when the twelve and the seventy returned they had reached out and gathered many into the fellowship of the Christian way.

Paul, the Pharisee, was reaching out in his zeal for the Jewish faith when he was stopped by the vision of Christ, and his whole life was changed. He became the great missionary of the early church. Through his letters, which are a part of the New Testament, he has reached out to us and to all the world.

Barnabas, the Cypriote Jew, was a man of Christian character and determination that every part of the world should know the good news of the gospel. The Christian outreach is connected with his name.

Those Hebrews who had lost their faith and interest were brought back to it by the reaching out of Christian men and women who had found the truth and the joy of it.

Today there is a great outreach movement in the Christian church. Let us make that it be real. Let it not be a libel against the great missionary explorer for whom Christian faith and prayer were as much his inspired life as marching. And Livingstone was only one of many exemplifying in these modern days the outreach of the church.

And now the church is at the portals of the ways, faced with a great opportunity and responsibility, or with the most tragic failure conceivable. The world was stricken and broken by the war as can all around us. A reconstruction is impossible in what it had been years ago. The world needs as never before the saving, healing, purging power of the church and the church and the church. It will can meet that need as never before. Will the church that is the people of God and the soul of mankind in new and powerful ways the outreach in which the church began?

MARKS MONEY ON POTATOES

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 10 (AP)—A yield of from 250 to 300 bushels of Irish potatoes to the acre at a net profit of $200 to $250 an acre would be considered good business in most any language. That's the prediction of Dr. L. S. D. Jahnke, a Dartmouth and Rhodes Scholar, Louisiana Hill potato champion of 1944 and 1945 [illegible] of Sweet Lake, realized from the sale of one acre of prize-winning sweet potatoes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — How men named to unions are made to work against their own best interest to the damnation of the rights of the people can be seen in the inside story of the Washington bus and street car strike on the very day of the labor-management national conference meeting here.

For 34 hours the transportation system of the nation's capital was completely stopped. Government employes managed to get to work and back because everyone who had a car brought it out, and others hitchhiked, but hours were required for many, some not getting home to dinner until after 9 p. m., or to work until noon, and a few being forced to walk the miles to and from.

News pictures were presented showing WAVES or WACs smiling and thumbing rides and jokes were printed about the fellows who owned cars waiting for the prettiest girls, but the public was angry, silently, clumsily, perplexedly angry.

How could they be otherwise when no one mentioned or considered their rights to public utility service from beginning to end? Public, press and government, in awe of this defiant power of the union suffered with a passive fear in a spirit that this was a contest of labor and capital on which it could not plunge or assert itself.

And for what? That is now it happened.

An announcement after midnight meeting of the street car and bus workers was called in a burlesque theater. Many showed up with a half pint, or more, to see the night through. It was a secret meeting from which the press and public were excluded. The morning papers the day of the strike carried no warning in home delivery editions.

The workers voted at midnight, around 3 a. m. The first the average citizen heard of it was when he arrived at his street or bus station to find cues of people waiting. The strike had been called on a protective, darned point.

This was not a wild or new outfit, but an old, established A. F. of L. craft frequently voted strikes here. Due to war, it has many low women and men members, except the women were called in to drive the electric cars. At the secret meeting, we were told, the women were the extremists. They spoke and yelled louder, than the men.

Indeed after the walk-out had been voted the meeting refused to listen to any reasonable voice of top national union leaders who did not go out on strike with the others, who tried to get the president and the board down. Public relations [illegible]

[illegible]

Now one might reasonably expect the timing of this strike was to the prospect Mr. Truman's visit was an [illegible]

They think the employes can be called out with a couple of words from their individually elected officers. Two-thirds of the Washington and the National Labor Relations Board are said to be against the national union leaders assembled for the labor-management conference. This was the key to the secret behind the whole affair, not being published or publicly mentioned by anyone.

Indeed government, press and public reported the strike as if it were afraid of offending anyone. Thus reports were limited to the barest facts. No investigation of the cause or justice of the union claims was made. Only unrevealing statements issued by both sides were offered.

Truth is the union wage demand was a long running case twice decided by the War Labor Board. On the first try for a 30 cents an hour increase the company offered five cents but W. L. B. threw the case out. In the second try, W. L. B. authorized a seven cents an hour increase discussed as a bonus and the company agreed.

Backed by such a decision the employes naturally would not and indeed could not go further, while the union persisted in getting its demanded 30 cents (really not expecting to get that much).

A strike called at such a time naturally could not be successful. By the second day, the men had lost their appetite to assert their power. They welcomed government conciliators for the arbitration they had spurned.

I suspect Mr. Truman's smart lawyer-adviser-in-the-background, John R. Steelman, who knows labor more objectively than any man in the country, negotiated the settlement from his White House chronic. And what did the unions get? A two weeks' truce to talk the matter over. The strike was wasted, utterly wasted.

Only sufferer was the public. No union man and woman worker [illegible] could afford a car and the auto and many people and others who could not get one during the war lost so. I wonder when their secret will burst. It will one day.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—The only wire recording instrument in New York, so far as I was able to learn, is encased in a plain walnut box, made to order by a carpenter, Mr. Harold Snow, representing the Lear people who own it, and Mr. John Nannovic, who were demonstrating the machine for me, apologized about the box or case.

I told them I thought it in much better taste that the cases of most cabinet talking machines and radios that I have seen. I was willing to wager that by the time the instrument is ready for commercial exploitation it will have had its cabinet tortured with jig-saws until it looks like a Swiss chalet.

The very first makers of talking machines made them so ugly that they would scare away all meddlers. Those were the little machines with the horns. Later, when they were encased in cherry-colored cabinets, the tradition of ugliness had been established.

A good carpenter can build a nice plain box for this new instrument. They ought to encourage him to go on doing it.

We listened to a recorded program taken off the air and reproduced. In the middle of it, the operator stopped the machine. We kept on talking about it. I was asking questions, which my informants were answering.

All of a sudden, the machine started up again. Our conversation was repeated, very clearly, and in natural tones. The air program was being erased as our voices were being recorded. A microphone, over in a corner, had picked up the words.

We have a closet filled with records of popular pieces. My daughter bought them when they were in school. They haven't played them for years.

With this wire machine, you'd simply record the popular song from the air. Two weeks later, when it had died of old age and unpopularity, you would erase it and take on the most popular bit of foolishness current, being sung.

You'd save all that money and storage space.

Crime does n't pay, posters in the subways told us after the last war.

Sometimes true.

In our town a man who had stolen millions of dollars from many people died the other day. From the day of his great success in taking other people's money he had declined in wealth, health, happiness. Although he escaped prison he had to move out of his palatial home, for fear of the angry indignation of his neighbors. He had aways in the woods, and a wife old and ill there. Family misfortune dogged him, and he harvested for himself misery and remorse.

In that case, at least, it doesn't pay.

Mr. Will N. Friend of St. Louis went to school in Texas with Tom Connally, now Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. On a recent day both had a cross that surrounded a table at the United States Senate. Friend worked over, recognized Connally by his recent newspaper pictures. SCARLET LILY IS REVIEWED

Mrs. Breard Discusses Book Before Groups At St. Matthew's

Wednesday, November 7, Mrs. Ben Breard reviewed the book, "The Scarlet Lily," by Rev. E. Murphy before the entire sodality and the faculty of St. Matthew's High School. This review was one of the features of Catholic Book Week in the school.

Mrs. Breard in her review, said in part: "'The Scarlet Lily' is a story suggested by the life and times of Mary Magdalene. The novel is full of action and pathos. In it the author has painted a very graphic picture of Palestine during the time of Christ.

"In his characters he reveals both his knowledge of human nature and his sympathy for its sorrows and weaknesses. Beginning with Mary Magdalene's childhood, inter-weaving fiction with fact, the author has written a very sympathetic story of the world's greatest sinner. Although the hearts of other women may have been at peace in their simple lives, her heart was a gory tomb for memories too painful to recall. Like a piece of flotsam she drifted with the debris of life's stream. She could not forget Joas, her baby brother, murdered in Herod's massacre of infants. In a single night, the girl had become a woman, yet without a woman's trust and faith, but one without love, possessed of an abiding hate. Hate for Herod, who like a foul spider, had spun out this excess of crime; hate for his soldiers so pliant to his diabolic will, and hate most of all for the Child in Bethlehem whose birth had been the immediate cause of the loss of her loved brother.

"Mary was glad when John was beheaded. She felt that the first installment of her debt for the Nazarene had been paid. She walked over to inspect the head and when she looked into the eyes, she was a blend of such patience and peace as dignified the countenance of young Josue, slain by Herod years ago.

"Mary Magdalene had Tullus and Asar, Osias and the Babylonian prince, and many other admirers. She had a jewel box of a palace, and gowns sheer as smoke, flashing as fire. She had Herod Antipater himself, while his vagrant wife smoldered in despair. Yet that first Friday found her beneath a cross upon which hung the poorest of men and the most perfect which this world has ever seen. Christ of Nazareth.

"As Mary Magdalene raised her tear stained face, her understanding was complete. Christ's kingdom was not greatness, but goodness. Earth had had and would have its Herods - proud selfish cruel and decadent men. Multitudes had writhed and would writhe under their sway, but there was only one king who could rule human hearts, and by His wounds heal them, and that was Christ."

His second child, Carolyn Ann, was born after he sailed. Mrs. Hudson and daughters live with the lieutenant's parents at 1107 Trenton street, West Monroe.

KEEP PICKETS AT HIGGINS PLANTS

No Word Forthcoming About Owner's Personal Plans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A. F. L. unions today kept up their fight against now-liquidating Higgins Industries, Inc., maintaining pckets at the closed industrial canal plant here and renewing demands for a congressional investigation of the whole dispute.

William L. Donnels, publicity chairman for the metal trades and building council, said picketing would continue until action was taken on a previous union demand for a congressional inquiry into Andrew J. Higgins' closing of his three boat-building plants here Nov. 1 during a labor dispute and strike.

The closure was followed by a stockholders' decision yesterday to liquidate the multi-million dollar Higgins properties, including three boat-building and building supplies and companies manufacturng airborne rescue boats and atomic bomb parts at the government-owned Micheaud plant.

"We intend to find out the real reason behind the Higgins shutdown," Donnels said, announcing a meeting of union leaders tomorrow to study further action.

The Micheaud plant, employing 5,000 workers, will be closed as soon as the government acts on existing contracts, possibly within a few days or a month, company officials said today.

The plant had not been affected by the Higgins-A. F. L. contract dispute which resulted first in a strike at the three other Higgins plants, then closure of the plants and, finally, the liquidation order.

No official word was forthcoming about the personal plans of the industrialist who during the war built PT boats and landing craft but a close business associate, who did not wish to be quoted by name, commented:

"Andrew Higgins is not liquidating himself. He is a natural-board producer and fighter. Higgins is a man to watch."

CONTACTS MADE WITH RETURNEES

Department Of Veterans' Affairs Renders Its Report

Almost 5,000 more office contacts with returning veterans were made during the month of October, than during the month of August by the 53 parish service officers of the state department of Veterans Affairs, Joe Darwin, director, revealed.

The figures given on these contacts are: October, 13,741; September, 10,-162; August, 8,830.

Field contacts for October totaled 1,188, with 13,554 letters received and 10,507 sent out.

The 53 parish service officers also filled out 3,945 applications for miscellaneous benefits; 822 power of attorney grants; 136 appeals from the decision of the Veterans Administration rating board; 163 applications for hospitalization and domiciliary care; 169 for compensation with service-connected disability; 53 compensation applications for non-service-connected disability; 28 for burial allowance; 30 for compensation or pension for veterans' widows or children; 62 for pension for parents of service-connected veteran; and 49 insurance claims for veterans.

In the division of claims, New Orleans, 939 veterans' files with the Veterans Administration were reviewed, on an average of 36 per day; and 1,335 appearances before the rating board were made, an average of 51 per day, for the month of October.

"This is in addition to work done by the department office, located in the State Capitol, which is administrative," Director Darwin points out.

GAS POLICY HIT BY H. G. FIELDS

Joins Landowners In Protest Against Fixing Rates, Control

FARMERVILLE, La., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Harvey G. Fields, prominent attorney and resident of Farmerville, also an owner of land, royalties and leases in the gas fields of Union parish, Saturday registered violent protest against the fixing of gas rates and control of sale of gas in the Monroe gas field.

He stated as follows:

"That the fixing of gas rates and control of transportation of gas by the Federal Power Commission, and the attitude of the State Conservation Committee in prohibiting the transportation of gas to Memphis and other points for domestic and commercial use, is just one more move, and one more play on the board, against the principles and policies of free enterprise and private enterprise, besides being a lick struck at the many farmers and land owners of this and other fields in north Louisiana, who want to sell their gas and get all they can out of it during a time when it can be sold and distributed at a profit." This hearing is set for Monday, November 12, and will be held in the post office building, New Orleans.

Mr. Fields further said: "It is a well-known fact that the railroad heads, the coal operators of the east, in a combination with officers of the C. I. O. and reinforced by the conservation committee of Louisiana, and several big corporation lawyers, notably one who represents two large and dominating factory and manufacturing interests in Louisiana, are the sole instigators and agencies through which an attempt is being made to hurt the rights and financial benefits of more than ten thousand property owners, royalty owners, and independent operators in Louisiana by using the conservation committee of this state to stop the sale and shipment of gas from Louisiana to other points in the south."

"We buy coal, butter, cheese, oil products and many other objects and substances from other states. We ship to other states. Why should there be any difference in gas. The whole thing is covered by a smoke screen. The people will be struck by blows of injury if this proposition goes through.

"An increase in use of gas brings more revenues to the people and brings a higher price for gas and there are hundreds of people who have gas under their lands that will never be developed if the present state policy is carried out, and some other operator in the field, near to their lands, will get it free of charge. It also will provide new markets, a fair price for the product and to prohibit the sale is quietly taking away states rights and trespassing upon the rights of several thousand royalty owners in this state.

"Every police jury in north Louisiana ought to join in helping out and pass the proper resolution. Four of them in the gas fields have already done so and they are to be commended. However, we ought to let the Federal Power Commission know what a police jury is, that it is an important body representing the people of the parish they are located in, because some of those fellows up north do not know what a police jury is and may think that it is a board that has control over a few policemen. The whole thing should be clearly presented and it is up to the people of Louisiana through their representatives to write or wire the state department that they oppose the position of the state officials and certain big lawyers, who are getting large fees for their services, in prohibiting the sale of the gas that comes from under the land of our free holders, good citizens and land owners in this commonwealth."

Lieber Heirs Give Site For Crippled Children Institution

An institution for the recuperation of crippled children is planned for Monroe, the site for which was donated the past week by heirs of the L. L. Lieber estate. It is located on Highway 80, a short distance east of the Sicard overpass.

The state organization, the Louisiana Society for Crippled Children, will assist with the financing of a suitable structure and further plans will be discussed and adopted at the state convention of this group which will be held in New Orleans, November 17 and 18, stated Mrs. Mac Modes, secretary of the Ouachita unit.

The property will be landscaped and dormitory and class rooms will be erected, according to plans that are now under consideration.

Mrs. Modes states that it will serve the needs of crippled children from all parishes of the Fifth Congressional District and that it should become a most important and essential public institution for this entire area.

PUBLIC FORUM

LISTEN, AMERICA!

Monroe, La.
November 10, 1945.

To the Editor:

We are the dead
Short days ago we lived,
Felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved,
But now. . . .

As I passed by Arlington Cemetery and gazed at the huge monument which bears mute testimony of a world unsure, reeling, rocking on its very axis—a tide of bitter remorse, of grief, deep and profound, crept silently over me with a sense of finality as it were; a hot curtain. With the broad expanse of clear blue sky, its cold unseeing stars forming a majestic backdrop before my awed gaze, the capitol, in itself the symbol of a nation's very life, its glistening marble dome shining whitely in the distance. With so much beauty all around me I mused despairingly. . . . "The Unknown Soldier," indeed symbolic of a world crazed with fear, desolation, greed. Even in the face of his heroic deeds, in spite of the spectacular monument erected in his honor, . . . he is unknown. Unknown to the extent that no-one knows his origin, from whence he came, his name, his birthplace, his home, his parents—essential things in this day and time. But to a world well aware of his gallantry, his courageous deeds, his valor—he can never be unknown. His very existence is proof of the fact that democracy is a shining star in the distance, coming conquered." And I wondered if over every lonely mother's heart and over every lonely father's heart a feeling of peace and tranquility did not steal and soothe the tortured spirit as they thought "Perhaps . . . that's my boy." I wished fervently that it had.

Then, shockingly—almost doggedly—I turned my eyes to the future as if afraid to see what I would find there if I delved too far. Then . . . it came as I had known it would. I could see quite clearly another gleaming marble monument right beside the other two—which read quite plainly: "Unknown Soldier World War III." Suddenly, I tore my shuddering gaze away and my lips gave vent to the words even before my faculties comprehended what I had said. "No, no, it can't be. This is not to be borne! A nation whose wounds still bleed from previous battle cannot withstand another such as this." My words were agonized whispers of denial. But with remarkable clarity of vision I knew that it was unmistakably true. Then the old fears and doubts assailed me . . .

I dare utter these prophetic words not as an eulogy to the Unknown Soldier, he needs none, but to plead with you as citizens of tomorrow to prevent these being confirmation of my vision. So that we can look forward not to a baser, degraded, demoralized tomorrow but to an uplifted, purer one built on shining principles of faith, justice and truth. Until there is entrenched in each of our minds these principles, these principles that have been America's heritage since infancy, can we assure the generations following us that they will have such a world? Until the embodiment and spirit of these great principles be firmly embedded in each of our hearts, can we hope for a better tomorrow?

The answer, my friends, is a definite and emphatic "No!" For how can we lead others when we do not know the path ourselves?

In this age of brilliance, which produces such dangerous brain-children as the atomic bomb, it is ironic that man's own brilliance might just as well lead to his inevitable destruction. This is the thought that formed in my mind as I stood looking at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. I knew with dread certainly that this was our last chance. Humanity's last opportunity for survival.

It was difficult to force myself to stand there reverently, quietly, with bowed head and folded hands. I wanted to shout it from mountain tops—I wanted to hear the sound of my voice reach across the nation, echoed and reechoed from coast to coast by understanding, returning each time stronger than before. I wanted to shout to the American people, "Listen! Don't you hear? Listen to the trees, the rivers, the lakes, the valleys, the thousand—the million woodland streams. It's there, all around you. They know. They'll tell you. America Listen! Listen to the voice of the Unknown Soldier. Let him tell you. And heed his words, America. You cannot afford to be indifferent. Many eyes are upon you, trusting you, depending on you. You must not fail. Each day hurtles you swiftly forward to meet the impending doom. If you tarry—all is lost!" Then, I was no longer alone at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. There were thousands, nay millions, countless millions representing every nation on the face of the earth. I was not alone for they were saying in voices ragged with suffering, "Hear us, America and help us." They were there without pretense, without dissension. Can you hear them, America? Ask the Unknown Soldier.

Hear him as he says, "You have come a long way, America. You must not go back. When I died they said, 'You died in a war to end all wars.' I know they said it last time but this time, are they right this time, America? You must make it right. I cannot have died in vain! Promise me, America, that never again will this ghoul wreak its desolation on innocent victims. Promise, America?"

I heard him. I saw his pain-scarred eyes fill with unashamed tears. I saw the tortured that had been inflicted on his brow. I saw his arms extended beseechingly. Do you see him? Do you hear him, America? Listen!

Ordinary paints should dry with a gloss surface but they can be made to dry with a flat finish by decreasing the oil content and increasing the proportion of turpentine or other volatile thinner.

The enemy is vanquished. The world is moving forward. Valiant men spared in battle are returning from the wars. Soon, we hope, they'll all be home. All but those who lie under white stars and crosses, under surging seas, and wherever the war's dead have been laid to rest in this last conflict. May they sleep in peace, knowing in some way that we who were spared, will live our lives to prove their sacrifices justified. The earth which covers them must never again be trampled by the feet of men clashing in combat against each other. The children who live after them must know a good and happy life, free of all the causes which drove us into war. God rest their souls, who died in freedom's name.

FUEL ADDED TO ARMY, NAVY SPAT

Members Of Senate Committee Join In Merger Dispute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Members of the Senate Naval and Military Affairs Committees today added fuel to the flaming Army-Navy controversy over the proposed merger of the armed forces.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Naval Affairs, commented to a reporter on Secretary of the Navy Forrestal's letter criticizing the testimony of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle before the Military Committee yesterday:

"I think Secretary Forrestal is to be commended for placing it (the controversy) on a high plane."

But Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, a member of Military Affairs, had this to say:

"General Doolittle's statement as a whole was a magnificent one. If Mr. Forrestal's letter will stimulate people to read General Doolittle's full statement it wil serve a good purpose."

McClellan said differences always have existed in military circles over policies of national defense, and added:

"This issue should not be settled on a basis of personalities—but differences of opinion should be ironed out if possible, and if not, the decision should be made by responsible authorities."

Hill, the Democratic whip, told a reporter the Navy Secretary's letter "tends to show that division between the Army and Navy about which we heard so much at the time of Pearl Harbor. It emphasizes the need for putting the Army and Navy on the same team under a single department of the armed forces."

Forrestal's letter to Secretary of War Patterson objected in particular to a statement by Doolittle that "our B29 boys are resting uneasily in their graves" as a result of asserted claims by admirals that sea power and carrier-based planes brought about the Jap surrender.

Forrestal's letter said that "if we allow an honest difference over principle to degenerate into an exchange of personalities, we shall do irreparable harm to the end which we all seek in the name of national security: the comradship of all branches of the armed forces."

General Eisenhower, en route to the United States, might be asked to express his views on the merger. Eisenhower's Frankfurt headquarters said he will "appear before committees of congress."

PEDICAB TAKING RICKSHA'S PLACE

Three-Wheeler Provides More Room And Travels Faster

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Foreigners returning to China since the war ended have found a new vehicle—the pedicab. The pedicab is a three-wheeler—half ricksha and half bicycle.

Chinese say it was introduced by the Japanese as the greater East Asia's co-prosperity sphere's contribution to the ricksha pullers, a sort of "get-the-boys-out-from-between-the-shafts" movement.

It is one of the few items brought by the Japanese which bids fair to last although the old-line ricksha coolies still look down their noses at it. They also view it with considerable hostility because it is a much better two-place job than the ricksha. And a two-seater is a must with the sailors and soldiers now that introductions have been completed.

The old-line customers, Chinese and returning or liberated foreigners, still lean toward the ricksha but there is no doubt that even in this conservative and solid trade the pedicab is making inroads.

There are two kinds of pedicabs the pusher type where you ride up front in a reasonably comfortable seat while the bicyclist breathes down your neck. The other is the puller. You ride in splendor behind and enjoy the view of a bicyclist pulling you through the streets. Since neither rickasha puller or pedicab cyclist ever misses a collision by more than two inches nervous people enjoy the puller type more. They aren't quite so aware of the narrowness of their escapes.

Americans, who still are a little self-conscious and embarrassed at being pulled about by another human being, prefer the pedicab because the operator doesn't seem to be working himself to death every minute.

As one Yank remarked—"The pedicabs are all right, but when I ride in a ricksha I feel as though somebody ought to report me to the S. P. C. A."

Naturally, the pedicab is faster. It takes a pretty good ricksha boy to stay up with a bicycle indefinitely. Even so—once the novelty wears off both rickasha and pedicab are discouragingly slow.

Quoting another American: "They're all right if you're not going any place."

EX-PRESIDENT OF CUBA DIVORCED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Fulgencio Batista's attorney, Genaro Palacios Moreno, said today that General and Mrs. Batista had been divorced by the Cuban courts. He said he did not know the details. Friends of Batista said the decree was issued about a week ago.

Batista, former Cuban president, planned to leave here by plane for New York, where he will enter a hospital for examination to determine if surgery is necessary for the removal of gallstones.

LIBERALS GAIN LEAD IN JAPAN

Dominate First Free Election Campaign In 20 Years

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Peoples, Liberals and Socialist Parties—manned by old-line politicians—dominate the first free election campaign in more than 20 years.

Labor emerges as potentially the most influential new voice in Japanese politics as the parties square off over issues ranging from retention of the Emperor to socialization of industry.

It is strongly represented in the Shakaito or Socialist Party, led by veteran Laborite Tetsu Katayama. The most the party's shrewdest captains hope for is 100 seats in the new parliament.

At the present, the strongest party appears to be the Minhonto or Peoples Party, which boasts 250 members of the Diet who will campaign for re-election.

Made up of old-line politicians, the Peoples party will hold its inaugural rally Nov. 16. The election itself is not expected to be called before January and that leaves lots of time for campaigning.

The Peoples party, whose executive committee includes House Speaker Toshio Shimada, has extended feelers to Prince Konoye, former premier, to take over the presidency thus showing its conservative nature.

The second most important party is the Jiyuto or Liberal party, having 50 current Diet seats and now seeking a representation of at least 150 in the new parliament.

The Socialists rank third in strength and much farther back in fourth place comes the vocally-strong but numerically weak Communist party demanding an end to the institution of the Emperor.

All three major parties have announced their firm support of the Emperor system.

The Liberals have a platform calling for hewing to the Potsdam declaration and setting up a Democratic system under the Emperor. Their leaders strongly support private property against Communist attacks.

But for all that they have an agreement with the Socialists, advocates of nationalization of industry, to collaborate after the election.

The absence of new talent from all these parties is not surprising. Not only do the Japanese prefer age in their leaders, but in the last militant decade there has been no opportunity for honest political education.

ALL DAY SERVICE PLANNED HERE

There will be an all-day service held today by the Church of God, 809 Montgomery street, West Monroe. Dinner will be served.

There will be special music and several visiting ministers will be on the program which starts at 10 a. m.

The pastor, Rev. Dewey Herndon extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend.

IWO JIMA FLAG STATUE UNVEILED

Vandergriff Expresses Hope All Who See It 'Will Keep Faith'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Gen. A. A. Vandergrift expressed hope today a statue depicting the flag-raising on Iwo Jima would "remind all who pass that we must keep the faith with the brave and the fallen."

The statue, modelled after the famous photograph taken atop Mt. Suribachi by Joe Rosenthal, Associated Press photographer, stands in front of the Navy building on Constitution Avenue. It was unveiled today in observance of the Marine Corps' 170th anniversary.

"We in the Marine Corps," its commandant said in a prepared address, "are proud that men represented in the statue here to be dedicated are Marines. We are proud with the same pride we take in our entire 170 years of tradition, of which this deed has become an important part.

"But we have no illusions. We know that this statue commemorates much in addition to the courage of Marines, much more than the capture of a dominant height on Iwo Jima. We know that its meaning encompasses the whole effort of the people of our nation. . . .

"The five Marines and the Navy corpsman who placed the flag atop Mount Suribachi typify the unsurpassed gallantry of all men of the armed forces who won our total victory.

"There courage was from exactly the same cloth as that which smashed the German war machine in Europe and the Japanese in every sector of the Pacific.

"The men who raised the flag symbolize the sacrifice throughout the ranks of our fighting men. Three of the six died in the bitter combat of the next several days. Thousands like them, in every theater of the war, fell in defense of their country—and in the trust that, after victory, their nation would dedicate its might to the maintenance of the peace and security to which they dedicated their lives.

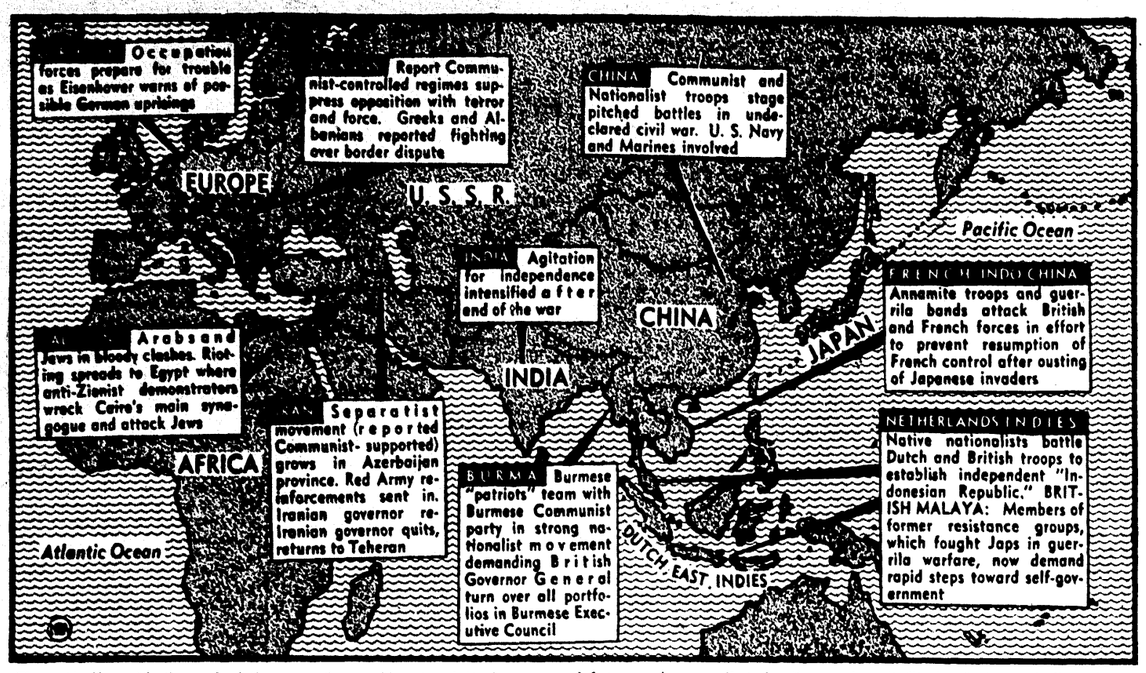
WHERE TROUBLE BUBBLES IN THIS 'PEACEFUL' WORLD



Theoretically, with the end of the war, the world entered its long-prayed-for era of peace. But the theory doesn't fit the facts—as indicated on the map above, which shows some of the trouble spots currently making news headlines. Add to those the political upheavals in South and Central America.

AMERICAN

ing areas. The Americans were worked harder than they had ever been worked on the Shirakawa farm, but, since they were being punished, they were not given the "work rice" they earned and so desperately needed. All began to lose weight at an alarming rate.

At one of their worst times during this period, with the older officers hardly able to do more than stand, the Japs authorized the slaughter of one pig each week. Those pigs had been bought and raised by our men, including the officers who were now being made to work against all covenants and their wishes.

But when the first pig was butchered the Japs took all the best cuts, gave the remaining parts to the enlisted men, who of course were still working (and who had never been given a chance to rebel), and to those officers who had remained at work.

One fantastically cruel month followed another, and still our officers held out on the strength of sheer American fortitude and will-power. Ravenous as they were, they even came to laugh at the efforts of the Japs to break them down.

Toward the end of their fearful ordeal, two representatives of the Protective Powers visited the Shirakawa camp. The Geneva Convention provides that belligerent governments shall designate some neutral government to act as their representative in dealing with the enemy nation in matters concerning prisoners of war. Switzerland was the protective Power for the U. S. and British prisoners. Sweden represented the Dutch. A Swiss and a Swedish delegate made the trip to the camp.

The Japs, forewarned, of course, appointed certain spokesmen to speak for our men at this meeting, which naturally made it farcical, because the true purpose of such meetings is for the Protective Power to determine if the captor nation is living up to the provision of the Convention. The American spokesmen were told in advance exactly what they must say to the Swiss and Swede. They were forbidden to discuss anything of consequence concerning the camp. Before the Protective Powers arrived the Japs rounded up all the starvlings in the area, ordered them to go inside the barracks wash and put on their best remaining clothes.

The American officers selected to speak with the Swiss had so little to say, except to look the man in the eye and invite his attention to their haggard bodies, that the meeting broke up much sooner than the Japs had anticipated. In leaving the camp, therefore, the Swiss and Swedish delegates ran into a group of our dirty, dishevelled, starved officers returning from their forced work in the fields. The Japs did their best to run the men to cover before the representatives of the Protective Powers could see them, but they failed. Our officers just stood there in their sweaty breechcloths and let themselves be seen. The Swiss delegate attempted to say something to an American major general, but before the American could answer more than a word or two he was brushed aside and sent indoors.

Nothing good ever came of this tragic meeting. If the Swiss did render his report it was ignored.

The ordeal of our courageous officers at Shirakawa ended on October 1, 1944. At 5 o'clock that afternoon they, along with certain British and Dutch officers, were peremptorily ordered to pack their belongings and were told they would be sent to Japan the next day.

The small group of senior officers and orderlies, of which I was privileged, joined the entourage of Gen. of Shirakawa early in October, '44 in Japan. And together we journeyed toward Manchuria.

We had no way of knowing at that time that this was to be the last milepost of our long travail. All we knew when told that we would be sent by sea was the sinking feeling a man gets when he learns that his prison sentence has been prolonged. Had we been kept in the Philippines we each now would have been free men. For Douglas MacArthur's forces already were coming by that time to within a few miles of Aparri, and a great fleet of ships was assembling in Subic Bay to transport him and manpower beyond the dreams of defeated commanders such as ourselves.

However, we were far from the Philippines by that time.

Before I was permitted to leave Muksaq for the new prison in the north, my personal belongings underwent their most complete search by the Japs. I previously saw such inspection being made of the personal letters and documents of other men, so I burned certain possessions of mine which I did not care for the Japs to see or seize.

When my turn came on my final day at Muksaq the Japs took from me my lengthy written report of the Bataan operations and the supporting reports of my division commanders, together with several valuable maps which had somehow escaped earlier probings of my effects.

I saved my little black diary and a file of personal and official papers by means of a bit of sleight-of-hand. My orderly, Sgt. Hubert Carroll had just had his own personal baggage thoroughly checked. Before the inspectors could get to me, however, I was able to slip the diary and file to him. He hid it in his already checked baggage, and in this way I was able to keep it—and it has been of great assistance to me in the preparation of this brief history.

We entrucked at Muksaq at 10 p.m. on October 5, 1944, were taken to Taihoku, put on a train and got under way at 11 p. m. We were on that miserable train all night and until noon the next day, by which time my sacroiliac trouble was aggravated to a point where I more than needed the old light walking stick which Gen. MacArthur had given me.

Our destination proved to be the town of Heito, near the southern tip of Formosa. Here we were transferred to a narrow-gauge railway used for hauling sugar cane, for we were in the midst of the principal sugar-raising district of the Japanese Empire. The train took us eight or ten miles to a thoroughly vile prisoner-of-war camp. As we entered the compound I saw a large group of prisoners, mostly British but with a number of Americans, returning from work in the fields. They were little more than skin and bone, some of their depleted bodies bronzed and some of them horribly burned by the sun. They were the very epitome of human bondage and standing there watching them drag themselves to their cup of rice moved me to helpless tears.

Our group was then loudly ordered to line up before the most savage-looking Jap lieutenant I ever saw. We counted off, and then were taken to a long, low-roofed bamboo shack with sleeping benches on the dirt floors.

We were given no midday meal. A surly Jap soldier led one of us to the opening of the shack to show us our sanitary arrangements. Outside was a bucket of dirty water for washing (we were grimy from the long and dirty train ride) and a reeking, wooden tub partly filled with human excrement and urine.

I saw the enclosed men Jap-bucket at dusk that evening and he in an irrigation ditch in complete weariness and his head was filled with them that night as I tried to find sleep on the hard bench that was my bed.

We had lost most of the niceties of existence long by this stage of our captivity. But few of us were able to stomach the sanitary arrangements the Jap provided at this camp. One of those who retched openly at the filth but outside the hut was a Bataan brigadier.

After being told that evening we would get a full ration of rice (we had been allowing to save the rations of the previous evening to assuage a raging hunger), the hut leader called for interpreter and it was the Japs' turn to chortle.

But I can't do it. I simply can't. The humor escapes me.

We could sympathize with the Japanese commander of the camp in that he had a difficult job to perform. But he was a brute and not even a good one.

Later that night I had a hot argument with the interpreting Jap sergeant who had returned up from under the foot of my bench. It was a ridiculous fight. I snatched my diary and the paper. It was a note from an American officer quartered in the other end of the shack. But the sergeant beat me to it and read it. Then he threatened to have me severely punished. I told him that I was a Japanese officer and that I had orders to endure any treatment the Japs gave them; they were determined to live.

Lt. Gen. A. E. Percival received a similar note from a British officer in the same heart-breakingly furtive manner as I received mine.

Daylight was a blessing for all of us. We got up, finished dressing, and were fed a little rice and transparent soup. We were then told to shoulder our belongings again, were formed and marched to the entrance of the camp, where the despotic-looking Jap lieutenant roughly searched us. We were then given one of those impossibly puerile orders which the Japs dote upon, such as our orders at Karenko to refrain from "thinking evil thoughts of Nippon." Here at Heito the Jap lieutenant now commanded that we remove all pens and pencils from our pockets and place them in our luggage.

They marched us to the narrow-gauge railway again and we were taken back to Heito, put in trucks and moved to its airport. Six Jap transport planes, copies of our C-47, were lined up waiting for us. My back was so bad by this time that Sgt. Carroll had to help me with my luggage and assist me in getting into the plane, but I was relieved to get away from Heito.

ATOMIC

mission needed power in order to protect atomic secrets. It urged that the legislation deal only with domestic control and leave international problems for later settlement.

The dissenting report filed today was signed by Rep. John E. Sharidan, Democrat, Pennsylvania, and the following Republicans: Representatives Short, Missouri; Arends, Illinois; Clason, Massachusetts; Shafer, Michigan, Elston, Ohio; Harness, Indiana; Fenton, Pennsylvania; and Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut.

The report, in part, declared:

"Even if this were to be interim legislation its extreme terms are unwarranted by any circumstance or condition.

"While the vast powers outlined * * * are requested under the hue and cry of an emergency, it should be borne in mind that the atomic bomb was conceived and developed over a considerable period of time without specific congressional action.

"We fully recognize that there must be a measure of secrecy and regulation, with rigid controls, but we are far from convinced that any emergency would warrant the surrender by Congress of the arbitrary and limitless powers set by this bill.

"We believe that passage of this bill would undermine the very foundations upon which our national life is built.

"It would defeat the purpose for which it purports to have been introduced. Scientific research, instead of being encouraged, would be circumscribed and limited by the whim and caprice of the commission and its personnel.

"Certainly something more should be sought than to keep from others the knowledge we have."

COMMUNISTS

tionalist troops at Paotow, western terminus of the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad west of Kweisui, besieged Suiyuan capital.

Their arrival "apparently strengthened" the defense of Paotow against Communist attacks, the dispatch said—thus giving the first indication that Reds actually were attacking this Nationalist stronghold.

From all accounts, Kweisui still was in the hands of its outnumbered government garrison, which reportedly had beaten off a steady succession of strong Red attacks.

All the inland action involved the few transportation routes which Nationalists would take to reach North China, Inner Mongolia and Manchuria.

in the United States." This he attributed to a lack of "major distribution centers" in the area.

Delta proposes a 59-minute flight between Baton Rouge and Monroe at a one-way fare of $10.50, witnesses testified. The present rate, for a flight from Monroe via Shreveport to Baton Rouge, is $14.75.

Delta officials were asked if the Monroe route would be used to channel passengers from New Orleans to points East of Monroe. This, the witnesses said, would prove too circuitous to be "salable" to post-war passengers.

The examiners sustained an objection to a question by which counsel for Southern Airlines sought to prove the proposed service through Monroe was an effort to reduce stops by planes bound east and west in the Ouachita parish seat.

Questioned as to the possibility of such intermediate points as Natchez being added in the future to the line, Woolman said his company "always expressed willingness to serve all cities the board may find need our service."

Asked about the possibility of operating the line to Monroe through Alexandria Woolman said:

"We are glad to serve any cities in our general territory if the need justifies the service."

Southbound passengers from Shreveport, Parker told the hearing, normally would be routed through Alexandria rather than Monroe, as a matter of "traffic control" but during periods of heavy traffic some "through" traffic might use the Monroe route.

The additional time of flight, he declared, should not prove of any consequence.

Miss Carolyn Husted Becomes The Bride Of Captain Amos Raleigh Shelton

Baptist Church Is Scene Of Ceremony

Reception Following The Ceremony Takes Place At Home Of Bride's Parents

When Miss Carolyn Reid Husted, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsey Husted walked down the aisle at the First Baptist Church to become the bride of Captain Raleigh Shelton of Greenboro, N. C., she wore the traditional wedding gown of lustrious white satin its voluminous skirt falling from a snug basque bodice with sweetheart neckline and long tight fitting sleeves with lily points over the hands. Her billowing veil of illusion was caught to a Juliet cap of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a superb wedding bouquet of tube roses caught with long lengths of embossed marquisette. The beautiful strand of pearls she wore was the wedding gift of the bridegroom. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The wedding, at five o'clock in the afternoon, took place November 4 with the Rev. L. T. Hastings officiating in the presence of a fashionable gathering of friends and relatives.

At the nuptial hour the cathedral tapers, myriads of them, were lighted by the groomsmen. White chrysanthemums banked the altar, chancel railing and choir loft and overflowed from graceful white pedestal urns placed in the background. The tapers in white candelabra were silhouetted against a background of southern smilax.

Organ music of a sentimental strain was rendered by Mrs. B. D. Allbritton who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. E. B. Shanks who sang, "I Love But Thee," and "Because."

The matron of honor, Mrs. Edgar Wicker, and the bridesmaids, Miss Barbara McKenzie and Miss Heloise Myatt, wore distinctive gowns of apricot satin with tight fitting basques and full, double net, floor length skirts. They wore flattering hats of apricot colored net and carried arm bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums tied with bronze satin ribbons.

The bridegroom was attended by Capt. William Duff and his groomsmen were Lt. M. C. Plummer, Capt. William Ward and Lt. Drew Davidson.

Considerable artistry prevailed at the Husted home where the reception was held following the ceremony. White chrysanthemums were used with the greatest profusion in the reception suite and dining room.

Mrs. Husted, who received the guests, wore a beautiful gown of aqua crepe with a charming little hat of pink feathers and long pink gloves. Her corsage was fashioned of pink carnations.

The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome cutwork linen and lace and centrally adorned with the wedding cake. It was a luscious confection fluted around with a pleating of white net. White candles gleamed in tall, silver candelabra placed at either end of the table. Candles also gleamed on the buffet where white carnations were massed.

Mrs. Lyman Gladney, the bride's aunt, wearing a handsome dinner model of black net and sequins, presided at punch bowl. Individual wedding cakes were served by Miss Mary Lavinia Inabnet, Miss Frances Raby Mrs. A B Myatt Jr., and Mrs. James Moore. They all wore evening models with corsages and long gloves presented to them by the bride.

The bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart tailleur of brown gabardine with harmonizing accessories and corsage of Talisman roses The young couple left for a honeymoon in Asheville, N. C.

The bride, a great favorite in younger social circles, is a graduate of Neville higa school and Northeast Junior college. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Kappa Delta and an active member of the Junior Charity League

Captain Shelton is a graduate of the Greensboro high school and Elon College, Elon, N. C.

Girl Reserve Club Activities

"Do you want a birdseye view of fun and friends?" Take a look at what's going on in Girl Reserve Clubs at the Y. W. C. A. In the afternoons after school the clubs meet at the "Y" and have interesting programs and make plans for their activities On Friday and Saturday evenings the groups have their parties. One of the club groups had Mrs. Mildred Swift as their guest speaker on the subject of "Fashions and Clothes." One group had as their guest speaker Mrs. D. C. Metcalf on the subject of "Vocations." One of the clubs with many new members had an interpretation of "The meaning of Girl Reserves" and at one of their meetings had Miss Dorothy Anne Mitchell, president of the Inter-Club Council of G. R.'s talk on "What Girl Reserves Mean to Me," and at another meeting several of the girls presented a skit on "One Hour With Girl Reserves." One club, the 7th Grade Group, has been recently organized and has elected the following officers: Adviser, Miss Barbara McKinzie; President, Anne Forman; Treasurer, Billie Harvey; Reporter, Freddie Ann McMath; Inter-Club Council Representative, Wilma Colman; Devotional Chairman, Patsy Jean Patterson; Social Chairman, Margaret Pounds. The Inter-Club council which is made up of representatives from each club met on Saturday with Dorothy Anne Mitchell, president, presiding. Carolyn Bagwell gave the devotional. Plans for Girl Reserve activities, the Girl Reserve birthday party for girls who have birthdays in September, Octobe, , and November on Thursday, November 15th; Girl Reserve newspaper, "The Chatterbox" with Julia Cash as editor; the Girl Reserve Bulletin Boards with Faye Hynum as chairman of the committee; Girl Reserve week. . . . December 2nd-9th which is the outstanding week of Girl Reserve activities, were discussed and committees were appointed for carrying out these plans

Girl Reserves are the younger members of the Young Women's Christian Association (one of the agencies of the Community Chest). Girl Reserves is more than a club . . . it is a way of growing in poise, in understanding, in personality, in pirit, giving knowledge and experience through contacts with others and wholesome activities so essential for our youth who will be tomorrow's leaders. One Girl Reserve expressed what Girl Reserves meant to her through these words: "Truly a representative of Girl Reserves' spirit was present when the Lord said, 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you' for Girl Reserves thrives on this teaching of Jesus.

Miss Sims Is Recent Bride

Wedding Of Prominent Young Couple Is Of Interest To Friends In This Parish

A wedding claiming the interest of friends throughout this section of the state took place at the First Baptist Church in Bastrop, La., when Miss Mary Sims, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Smith I. Sims, become the bride of Don M. G. Quinn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Quinn, with Rev. H. M. Bennett, officiating.

At the appointed hour, eight o'clock in the evening, the cathedral tapers placed in tall white candelabra, were lighted. They were silhouetted against a background of ferns alternated with tall white pedestal vases overflowing with yellow chrysanthemums.

While the guests were being seated by the groomsmen, Messers. J. B. Snyder, Mike Bell, Donald Higginbotham and William Quenan, the organist, Miss Alma Goss, rendered a nuptial concert and accompanied the soloists, Mrs. Murray Caldwell who sang, "Always" and Mr. W. E. Rose who sang, "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her sister's wedding gown of lustrous Duchess satin with high round neckline and full skirt ending in a long court train. Her veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a coronet of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of stephanotis and lilies of the valley tied with long streaths of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. J. B. Snyder of Alexandria served as matron of honor. She wore a beautiful pink net model and carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, Mrs. William Quenan, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Florence Oliver, Miss Shirley Campbell and Miss Dot McDowell. They wore lovely models of azure blue mousseline de soie and carried arm bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums tied with yellow satin ribbons.

The bridegroom, was attended by H. Fayette Bickley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Sims home where considerable beauty of decoration was noted. Yellow chrysanthemums banked the mantels and overflowed from urns placed in the background.

Mrs Sims was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. Donald Higginbotham, Mrs. Joseph Turpin, Miss Carolyn Rodgers, Miss Jo Ann Willis, Mrs. J. B. Rowlinson, Mrs. Warren Storment, Mrs. W. T Smith, Mrs. W. R. Davis, Mrs. Benton Kelley, Mrs. Fielding Fuller, Mrs. H. L. Peede.

The bride's table in the dining room, overlaid with handsome Chinese lace banquet cloth was centrally adorned with the beautifully embossed wedding cake. Plaques of yellow chrysanthemums were placed at the four corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn, following their honeymoon will make their home in West Madison parish.

Mrs. Ryland Is Hostess To The Readers Clique

Mrs. Walter Ryland, Jr., was hostess to members and guests of The Readers Clique. After a short business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Jack Meare, vice-president, the program was turned over to Mrs. Marion Learned, a guest.

Mrs. Learned at this time reviewed Paul Gallico's novel "The Snow Goose" a splendid heart-warming and human story of a pathetic hunchback, Philip Rondel and Frith, a child who befriended the misshapen man and had a wonderful adventure. Prenuptial Affairs Honor Bride-To-Be

November Bride Is Feted With Many Lovely Courtesies During Her Engagement Days

Miss Jane Humphries is finding her engagement days a delightful interlude so numerous and gracious are the prenuptial courtesies planned in her honor.

One of the loveliest compliments of last week was the charmingly informal conversational hour in the home of Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, with Mrs. J. O. Hastings, co-hostess.

White chrysanthemums were arranged with great artistry in the reception suite, where the hostesses welcomed their guests who formed conversational groups around the guest of honor.

She wore one of her loveliest trousseau models of Cobalt blue silk jersey studded with gold nail heads. Her Colonial corsage of white chrysanthemums was presented to her by her hostesses. The beautiful oil painting from the brush of Mrs. Reynold's sister, Mrs. Drew Hays of Ruston, dominated the wall of the reception suite.

The coffee table, overlaid with handsome lace and florally adorned with a large Colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums, held silver trays laden with luscious confections. The silver coffee service placed at one of the tables was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Feazel. She was assisted by Miss Lallage Feazel, Mrs. Fred Bennett and Mrs. T. O. Trawick.

Each guest was presented with a miniature Colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums in colors harmonizing with their gowns.

Jennie Reynolds, cunning little daughter of the hostess, assisted in the courtesies.

Another gracious courtesy extended Miss Humphries last week was the dinner party at the Frances hotel with Mrs. Louie Rinehart, Miss Betty Rinehart, Mrs. Henry Hamilton and Mrs. T. O. Trawick, hostesses.

Miss Humphries, wearing a dinner model of mid-night blue with insets of Alencon lace and a corsage of bride's roses and white carnations presented by her hostesses, occupied the seat of honor. The table was overlaid with beautiful Venetian lace and serviced in silver and crystal. Garlands of tube roses encircled the table centered with a cut glass bowl filled with white chrysanthemums. Tall crystal candelabra tied with bows of white tulle supporting white tapers were placed at either end of the board. The place cards were miniature wedding slippers.

The hostesses presented Miss Humphries with some of her wedding silver.

A delicious course dinner was served. Individual wedding cakes were served with the semi-tasse.

Those present in addition to the hostesses and Miss Humphries, were; Miss Lallage Feazel, Miss Gail McDonald, Miss Bertha Lou McIntosh, Mrs. Sam Humphries, Mrs. C. G. Pierce, Mrs. Dick Alexander, Mrs George Bennett, Mrs. Sidney Conley, Mrs. Louise Hundley, Mrs. Francis Hamilton, Mrs. Henry Hamilton Jr., Mrs. Jim Larkan, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, and Mrs. Ed Harper Jr.

St. Augustine, Fla., changed hands 13 times and has been under Spanish, French, British, Confederate and U. S. flags.

MRS. DEWITT MILAM

The Ouachita Parish Chapter, American Red Cross, received another honor when Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Chairman of Volunteer Special Services, was invited to attend the National Central Committee Conference for planning post war volunteer Red Cross work. The meeting was held at Statler Hotel, Washington, D. C. Only two other Chapters in Louisiana were represented at this conference. This invitation was extended Mrs. Milam because of the outstanding Red Cross work that has been accomplished by the women in this Chapter. It is very unusual for a Chapter the size of Monroe to be invited to become a Central Committee member.

Purely Personal

One of the most striking and most distinctive exhibits seen at the Shreveport State Fair was planned and executed by a clever young Monroe girl, Miss Leigh Russell. Miss Russell spends much of her time behind a drafting desk in the Standard Oil Refinery's Chemical Technical division at Baton Rouge drawing flow charts. They are as beautiful as possible for charts of this nature to be and require definite technical skill. But Miss Russell requires an occasional deviation from them to satisfy her mobile imagination and nimble fingers. Recently she found exercise for both in planning and doing much of the work on exhibits. She was responsible for the company's display at the "Shot From the Sky" show in Baton Rouge a few months ago. The exhibit displayed at the state fair illustrated the refinery's emergence from war-time to peacetime production. Miss Russell is a great favorite in younger social circles in this city where she was born and reared. She is a graduate of the Louisiana State University and spent her freshman year studying art at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va.

Capt. and Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs, Jr., are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs on Riverside Captain Stubbs will return to South Dakota where he is stationed with the Army Air Corps Intelligence and Mrs Stubbs will be at home at the "Cedars" where she will be joined by her mother, Mrs. Pearl Chapman of New York. "The Cedars" now a modern apartment, was originally the home of the Stubbs family. It was built before the Civil War and is one of the oldest homes in this section of the South. The stately cedars fringing the driveway are a century or more old and from them the home derived its name.

Mrs. Janet Powell who arrived in the city via Delta Air Lines from Detroit, Mich., last week is being extensively entertained by old friends. Mrs. Alfred Reid's compliment was a supper party at her home Tuesday night, and Mrs. Arthur Dayburgh named Mrs. Powell honor guest at luncheon at the Lotus Club. Mrs. Powell will leave via airways the first of the week for Atlanta, Ga., to visit her neice, Mrs. Winston Craig before returning to Detroit. Later in the season Mrs. Powell will leave for Palm Beach, Fla., where as customary each year.

A boost to recruitment of such needed volunteers was given by the recent announcement that Mrs. Harry S. Truman has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the National Committee on Volunteer Service of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Truman's services will be valuable to the Red Cross, and her name will strengthen appeals for volunteer recruits.

At this time there is great need for volunteer Red Cross canteen workers at Selman Field and in the sewing department. An appeal is being made to the women of the Twin Cities to volunteer for this important work.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Stroud and daughter, Lynne, are the guests of Dr. Stroud's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Stroud.

Lt. Com. John Stewart arrived in the city Friday and has joined his mother, Mrs. Charles Stewart in the home of his aunt, Mrs. Henry Bernstein.

JEWELS IN A glistening Christmas mood are now on display at the R AND A. If you are investing a goodish sum in a diamond ring to tuck in her stocking on Christmas morning it is necessary to consult a reputable jeweler in whom you have confidence. And keep in mind, love isn't measured by carats . . . a small perfect stone can be a symbol of your happiness.

The Building Fund has reached the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars. The goal is Sixty Thousand Dollars. The time set to secure the total amount is June 1, 1946. We therefore need Ten Thousand Dollars, which we expect to secure within the next few weeks. The cooperation of our people and friends of the community have made the sum in hand possible. We are grateful to every investor. We are confident that the balance needed will be in hand soon.

ARMY ROMPS OVER IRISH BY 48-0 SCORE BEFORE 76,000

Davis And Blanchard Lead Cadets To Impressive Victory In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Army's atomic twins, Glenn Davis and Felix (Doc) Blanchard, ran wild for five touchdowns between them as the Cadets' great eleven overpowered Notre Dame, 48 to 0, for its 16th consecutive victory today.

It was the first time in their gridiron rivalry that Army won two straight games from the Fighting Irish. The score might have mounted higher than last year's 59-0 had not both Blanchard and Davis been yanked midway of the third period and the second and third Cadet teams been permitted to play out the contest.

Davis, wing-footed halfback of the Cadets, reeled off three touchdowns on beautiful runs and Blanchard, pile-driving fullback, bounced across for a pair before Coach Earl Blaik decided the throng of 76,000 had seen enough of his twin beauties.

The Army seconds wobbled across for two more scores in the final quarter, the last one in the closing seconds of play. Blanchard and Davis each ran his total touchdowns for the season to 13.

Notre Dame's scrapping youngsters lost their one great chance to score on a fumble late in the third quarter after they had marched 38 yards down to the Cadets' one yard line. Bill Gompers, trying desperately to dive that final yard, let the ball pop from his grasp into the waiting arms of Bob Stuart, who ran it out to the 27.

Armys' great first team forward wall wound up its seventh game of the year without having yielded a touchdown by rushing, though the Irish made them take a couple of times out in the first period today to talk matters over as a sell-out crowd watched in Yankee Stadium.

The Cadets, as usual, chilled their adversaries right at the start, and left no doubt in anyone's mind that they were the bosses.

Right after the Irish missed their big scoring chance, the Cadets piled 73 yards down the field for their sixth score, with Elwyn Rowan, Tom McWilliams and Walterhouse alternating in clashing charges through the Greenshirts. McWilliams finally punched over from the two. The final Army touchdown was scored on a pass from Walterhouse to Clyde Grimenstein, sub-end after Walterhouse had raced 18 yards around end to the Notre Dame 2 yard mark.

Despite the jolt given them by Davis' quick touchdown only two minutes after the game began, the Irish put on quite a show for the crowd before the sheer weight and speed of Army bore them under. With Frank Ruggiero, Ernie Angsman and Phil Colella running hard, they put on two first quarter drives of 44 and 53 yards, each time penetrating well into Army territory before they were subdued.

Angsman in particular jolted the complacent Army forwards by ripping off a couple of nice runs of 15 and 28 yards. It was clear from the start that the Irish hoped mainly to keep control of the ball by running, and they did remarkably well at it. They passed scarcely at all in the first half and it was only toward the end when their cause was hopeless that they really began flipping the ball about.

The Irish were extremely anxious to keep the score within bounds this time, and they did a remarkably competent job considering the obvious superiority of the big fellows from the plains. Coach Hugh Devore had reason tonight to be proud of his boys.

As for the Army, they still looked like one of the great teams that have trodden the gridiron—perhaps, as some believe, the greatest. In Blanchard and Davis they undoubtedly displayed one of the most terrific backfield combinations in history. Davis was a wraith in the open field, a man it appeared almost impossible to lay a hand on. Blanchard, every time he carried the ball, was a tank running wild. Even when the Irish stopped the big guy it was all too plain they took punishment.

Aside from those two, the Army had a great, hulking line that in the end defied the heroic efforts of the Notre Dame backs—Ruggerio with the "iron mask" protecting his cut chin and Angsman with the missing teeth from last week's Navy game. The Irish youngsters tried hard, and they were not disgraced.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's rugged football team manhandled a bungling Tulane eleven, 41 to 7, today, taking command from the start and giving 30,000 spectators little suspense for their money.

The hard-hitting engineers scored a touchdown each in the first three periods, then poured over three in the fourth quarter against the outclassed and somewhat demoralized Greenies.

Tulane's best showing in the fumble-filled contest came shortly after the third period kickoff when Ed Holtsinger dropped the ball and James Lassetter recovered for the home team on the Tech 33. Dick Hoot smacked through the middle for the final 22 yards of the touchdown drive, and Harry Levonian placekicked the point.

Otherwise, it was all Tech. Six players got a touchdown apiece, and Jack Helms placekicked five extra points.

The difference really lay in the towering, hard-charging engineer line which gave Tulane's backs an unmerciful going-over.

Tech's thrice-beaten griddiers drove 41 yards for a touchdown the first time they got the ball, with Billy Williams smacking over from the two. A 34-yard march accounted for the second period score, Jack Peek making it from the two.

A fumble gave Tech the ball on the 12 in the third period, and Holtsinger promptly tossed a six-point pass to Walter Kilzer.

Holtsinger pitched to George Mathews for the final five yards of a 61-yard parade to start the fourth period scoring.

Then Bert Aton, a tackle, snatched a fumble by Ernie Crouch out of the air and lumbered 50 yards over the goal. Center Cleaborne O'Kelly finished the massacre by intercepting a crouch pass and racing 44 yards.

The lineups:

Ga. Tech	Pos.	Tulane

Aton	LT	Tunken

THIRD AIR FORCE AND KEESLER FIELD MEET

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Third Air Force Gremlins, unbeaten in the AAF conference with three victories in league play will step outside circuit competition tomorrow to meet the Keesler Field Fliers of Biloxi, Miss. Kickoff time is set for 2:30 p. m.

The Gremlins, probably the youngest aggregation in service competition, who played over their heads to crush the Superbombers of the Second Air Force Sunday at Denver 35-0 will start virtually the same lineup against the visitors whose victory last week over the Gulfport (Miss.) Fliers was the first conference win for them this season.

Football followers favored the Gremlins to win their sixth triumph of the season over the Keesler team tomorrow. The visitors, who operate from the T formation under the direction of Coach Jim Coffis of Stanford, will depend on speed and a spectacular passing attack. The locals will bank on a combined aerial and ground offense center around all American Bob Kennedy while the visitors' chief threat will be Bobby Ball of Auburn.

N. J. C. MEETS HOLMES TEAM IN IMPORTANT GAME FRIDAY

Tilt To Have Definite Bearing On Southern Junior College Title

A football battle that is expected to have a definite bearing on the southern junior college grid championship is scheduled for Monroe next Friday night when the Northeast Junior College Indians, champions of Louisiana, tackle the Holmes Junior College eleven of Goodman, Miss., at Brown Field.

Coach James L. Malone's Redmen clinched the Louisiana crown when they defeated the McNeese Cowboys of Lake Charles. The undefeated Holmes gridders, who last week beat Ellisville Junior College at Laurel, Miss., 48 to 12, have been once tied by the strong unbeaten Hinds Junior College outfit, also of Mississippi, and a return game between Hinds and Holmes has been ordered for Nov. 30 at Laurel to decide the Mississippi crown.

The southern championship picture shapes up something like this: N. J. C., Holmes, Hinds and Marion Military Institute of Alabama are the contenders. While N. J. C. and Holmes are battling here in what will virtually be a "semi-final playoff," the Hinds and Marion teams will be playing the same night in Jackson, Miss. Already plans are being made to match the winners of Friday's games in an early December contest for the Dixie title. If Holmes and Hinds win their games Friday then their return game at Laurel on the 30th will be for both the state and southern crowns. Should either N. J. C., Marion or one of the two Mississippi teams win, then a December game will have to be arranged and a site decided on for the championship struggle.

Jackson, Miss., is reported already seeking to have the title game played there, and Monroe followers of the N. J. C. Indians are as anxious to have the contest played in Monroe if the Redskins are still in the running following the Holmes contest.

After the Holmes invasion the Indians end their regular schedule here the following week against the strong Selman Field Cyclones, but regardless of the outcome of their game with the service team, the Tribe will still be eligible for junior college championship play. The Indians' lone defeat this year was at the hands of Arkansas Tech, a senior institution and the loss does not disqualify the locals in junior college circles.

N. J. C. will celebrate homecoming in connection with the Holmes game and arrangements are underway to make it the most auspicious homecoming ever held at the local college. Arrangements are also being made to entertain the largest crowds to see an N. J. C. game since Pearl Harbor.

Bad weather the last two days has cut into the Indians' training routine and eliminated scrimmages, but the locals have the benefit of an open date the past week and have been spending their time getting their few cripples back into shape with hopes of being at full strength for Holmes.

In mid-week scrimmages last week the Tribe, with the possibility of a championship to inspire them, worked harder than at any other time this year. A hard scrimmage is on tap for tomorrow with emphasis being placed on pass defense.

The Indians will probably have to play Holmes without the services of their standout tackle Floyd Van Monroe ex-serviceman who has been a line stalwart at N. J. C. all season. Van has been confined to bed since the second McNeese game, and even if he does recover from an attack of influenza this week he is not expected to be in any condition to be of much service. With Van out of the lineup, Coach Malone is depending on Rex Davey to fill the gap.

Something in the way of a miracle is considered necessary to have Cecil "Johnny" Johnson, stellar back ready for Holmes, and Walter Johnson, speedy right halfback injured two weeks ago, is still missing practices. "Johnny" Johnson has a blood clot formed on one leg below the knee and unless his condition improves he will be definitely sidelined.

With the exception of minor injuries the rest of the squad is in top condition.

Malone Worried

Coach Malone has expressed concern about how to develop a defense to stop Holmes' unorthodox T-formation offense. The way Holmes runs the T machine has been described as about the "screwiest" ever seen on the grid, and Malone declared, "I'm frankly worried."

In scrimmage the past week the reserve squad using Holmes' plays from scout reports, ran roughshod over the first string, causing Malone his defensive headaches.

"I'm open for suggestions from anyone on methods for stopping this screwball offensive attack Holmes will use against us," the Indian mentor declared.

Special consideration for ex-servicemen on the N. J. C. squad will be extended in the Holmes game Malone said, when they will be personally introduced to the spectators.

It is also possible that an all-veteran team will start for the Tribe, and Coach Malone has returned such clever ex-Marines as Malcolm Young and Charles Tidmon, ends; Bill Robinson and Henry Ison or Van, tackles; Tommy Sand and Floyd Temple, guards; James Perry, center; Stanley Passman, quarterback; Bernie Seaport, left half; Monte Evans, right half; and Andrew Craft, fullback. The lineup will represent most of the regular starting eleven and a few No. 1 reserves, so there is a chance that will get the Indians in a hole at the beginning of the game.

Other ex-G. I's available for work with the Tribe are Backs Walter Johnson and Bernie Van and linemen "Pug" Elkins, center; Ed Roy Reppond, guard, and David "Grandpa" Cooper, who begins his 37th year of age. Cooper served in both the European and Pacific theaters of war and has declared he's "good for another year in an American uniform." The big lineman takes his recently acquired nickname of "Grandpa" good naturedly, and says he doesn't mind at all. He's a good bit over the average age of N. J. C. players.

Then after the former G. I. talent joins the show, Coach Malone is looking to starting the second half with an all-veteran Louisiana team.

Such a team might include Velchoff, Reynolds and Moore, Bastrop guards; Robinson, West Monroe, and Dave, West Monroe tackles; Grand Bastrop, and Weters, Monroe guards; Perry Bastrop or Elkins, Winnsboro, center; and all-Monroe backfield of Bernie Van, Johnny King, Percy Bedsaul and Cecil Johnson or Andy Cope.

And not to slight any boys on the squad, Coach Malone will have available such capable athletes as Clyde Lofton, back, Newport, Ark.; Glenn Gossett, back, Malvern, Ark.; Bernie Seafort, Lansing, Mich., and Harry Allsworth, center, Jeannette, Pa.

TENNESSEE WHIPS OLE MISS, 34 TO 0

Stephens And Stephenson Lead Vols To Easy Win At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Nov. 10.—Tennessee's Volunteers, bidding for Bowl recognition with tank-like power, ground out five touchdowns in Crump Stadium's mud today to overwhelm a hapless University of Mississippi team, 34 to 0.

A hardy crowd of 6,000 braved an intermittent cold rain to watch the Orangemen of Knoxville rack up their sixth triumph in seven starts this year.

With Buster Stephens and Casey Stephenson lugging the ball behind a hard-charging line, the Vols racked up three touchdowns in five minutes of the first period, added scores in the second and third cantos and then let the third stringers finish the contest.

The Tennessee Regulars, many of them veterans of the last Rose Bowl game, played only a small portion of the game, cut short apparently by mutual agreement.

The first score came after a blocked Mississippi punt gave the Vols the ball on the Ole Miss 14. Hard-running Stephens smashed ten yards and then across.

Two minutes later, Stephenson ripped right end on a reverse and dashed 38 yards for another touchdown, but Stephens decided to better that. The next time he got the ball he broke over tackle and went 52 yards for the third tally.

The third marker came in the third period, Captain Billy Bevis scoring from the one-yard line after a 50-yard drive.

Stephenson converted four tries from placement in a remarkable kicking exhibition with a slippery ball.

Mississippi was completely throttled. The Rebels' only threat came late in the game when Jerry Crook, sub half back, broke away for 43 yards to the Tennessee 15. But the Rebels lost the ball immediately on a fumble.

Ole Miss earned only three first downs and got two others on penalties. The Rebels had only 52 yards net rushing to 265 for Tenessee.

The Lineups:

Tennessee	Pos.	Mississippi
Wildman	LE	Stribling
R. Dobelstein	LT	Dale
McQuady	LG	Blackwell
Miller	C	Gerrard
B. Dobelstein	RG	Russell
Paulouris	RT	Kauer

Bevis	QB	Bruce
Stephens	LH	Castle
Stephenson	RH	McWright
Major	FB	McCain

Score by periods:

Mississippi	0	0	0	0	0
Tennessee	21	6	7	0	34

Tennessee scoring: Touchdowns, Stephens 2, Bevis, Stephenson, Holsclaw (for Stephens). Points after touchdowns, Stephenson 4 (placement).

FIELD GOAL GIVES TEXAS AGGIES WIN

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Chunky John Ballentine, whose service with the Texas Aggies is measured in minutes this season, got in for just 30 seconds today but it was enough to bring A. and M. a 3-0 victory over Southern Methodist in a glittering Southwest Conference duel.

From the S. M. U. 24-yard line, Ballentine, 20-year-old married freshman, plunked the ball through the goal posts in the first play of the second period and that was the ball game although the Methodists virtually camped on the Cadet goal line throughout the second half.

His day's work done, Ballentine trotted to the sidelines and a rugged battle raged between two fighting teams the rest of the way. Ballentine, 185-pounder from Ysleta, Tex., hasn't played more than three minutes all season.

A crowd of 10,000 shivered through one of the most interesting games ever turned in on Kyle Field. The result eliminated Southern Methodist from the conference race except for a mathematical chance and pushed A. and M. into a virtual tie for the lead.

A 52-yard dash—the longest run of the day—by Gib Rob Goode, freshman halfback and conference scoring leader, set up the field goal.

GOVERNOR IS AT HOME

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida, here for the L. S. U.-Mississippi State football game tonight, remarked today that he "would feel perfectly at home during the game." And he wasn't just being polite.

The reason: Governor Caldwell once made his home in Louisiana and he attended "Ole Miss" as an undergraduate student.

AUBURN TROUNCES S. L. I., 52 TO 0

Sparse Crowd Sees Plainsmen Score At Will Over Louisiana Team

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Auburn's Tigers bowled over little Southwestern Louisiana Institute, 52 to 0, today in a one-sided game that was generally considered a warm up for the all-important battle with Georgia next Saturday.

A sparse crowd of about 3,500 watched the Tigers gallop up and down the field almost at will, but cheered one brief Louisiana rally that held Auburn scoreless in the third quarter, at least.

Coach Carl Voyles was careful with his mainstays, keeping them under wraps for most of the game. However, the regular backs got their daily exercise and many of them were permitted to increase their scoring records.

Hataway, Yearout Lang, Abraham, Kuykendall and Mizerany crossed the Louisiana goal line. Billy Yearout and Dan Hataway scored twice each.

Voyles started most of his first team and their strength against the little Louisiana school was apparent from the beginning. A couple of minutes after the opening whistle Kuykendall went over, and was followed shortly afterward by Lang.

Center Frank Gatski blocked an S. L. I. punt for a safety in the same quarter.

From then on, except for a brief spurt in the third when the second stringers were in, Auburn galloped at will. Perkins and Landry showed what they could do when pitted against a team more nearly in their own class and ran up nice gains.

The lineups:

S. L. I.	Pos.	Auburn
Wilson	LE	Lipstak
Basile	LT	Cannon
Tabarlet	LG	Bearden
Eason	C	Harris
Touchet	RG	Smalley
Boudreaux	RT	Snell

RICE ROMPS OVER ARKANSAS, 26 TO 7

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Rice Owls, bright as a new-born babe in the early days of the season, came to full maturity at their homecoming celebration today, defeating Arkansas 26-7 with an eleven which should sound the tocsin for its remaining Southwest Conference opponents.

Faced by a skinny 17-year-old freshman from Mount Pleasant, Tex.—Huey Kenney—the featured Flock rolled along in unbeatable fashion.

Despite the fact it was heavily favored to flatten the Razorbacks who have been wallowing all season, Rice demonstrated a crushing ground game. It showed no startling passing offense because it didn't need to.

The Owls rolled up 316 yards along the ground, compared with a modest 61 by air. The Hogs garnered 125 yards with their ground offense, which occasionally showed flashes of power, but their passing attack famed in the past, fizzled to a total of 13 yards.

Young Kenney burst through the Arkansas line twice for touchdown runs, had a 58-yard touchdown run called back, set up a score with a 54-yard quick-kick, and otherwise comported himself with an ability belying his tender age and lank frame.

In only six days for scrimmage, Kenney racked up 79 yards.

The Owls scored one touchdown in the first period, one in the second and exploded in the final quarter for two. Arkansas mustered enough strength for its single score in the third period.

Kenney found able assistance in the persons of Little George Wednesley, All-Conference sack of last year. Halfback Bill Nemec, naval ensign whose eligibility was declared invincible today by James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference, and George Opocensky, end. Jack Hoerster, back, who performed nobly on the defensive side.

John Hoffman and Eugene Canada, Arkansas backs, were outstanding for their team, marred by injuries and the loss of Alton Baldwin, star back who was dropped from the squad a few days ago.

West Rice scouting system of today, the stage was set for the closing home game work when Texas A. and M. will climax one of the Owls' best, but little race, now thoroughly scrambled.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—They're playing real hockey, not the synthetic wartime variety, in the big arenas these evenings and the observation leads to a thought—or a question—of what big league baseball will show next summer . . . Hockey was the first major sport to feel the war's effects, and the first to recover . . . So far attendance at 14 games has averaged slightly over 14,000, which indicates the "boom" has arrived . . . Returning service men have strengthened most of the teams immeasurably, though a lot haven't attained their prewar form yet . . . Most clubs plan to string along with the veterans and give them every chance to show they're better than the fellows who have been holding down their jobs . . . Although Les Patrick, the Rangers' boss, figures that may take until January in some cases . . . Les adds that every one of his dozen returnees is being paid more than he was before the war . . . Cistoldi, Humberto, Macias And Zapata Booked For Wrestling Show

Another double main event is on tap for wrestling fans at Gus Kallois Arena here Thursday night with Angelo Cistoldi and Juan Humberto, already well known to Twin Cities fans returning for engagements with a pair of newcomers, "Gorilla" Macias and Pancho Zapata.

"I believe this week's card will be every bit as good as the fine show the past week," Promoter Kallio declared and his program the past Thursday attracted the biggest crowd ever to see a heavyweight show at the local arena.

Cistoldi, Boston Italian who fought to a draw with Don Evans, here last Thursday, has been paired with Macias, burly heavyweight from Mexico City.

Zapata, also a Mexican, will tangle with Humberto, the rugged Spaniard from Mexico, and already the program is looming as a Mexican affair, although Promoter Kallio hasn't said anything about whether or not he is also promoting the "good neighbor policy."

Both matches will have time limits of an hour and fifteen minutes with two falls required to win. The order in which the bouts will be presented will be determined at the ringside Thursday, and the opening match will get underway at 8 o'clock.

Cistoldi and Humberto were both on the past week's top-notch program here, with Cistoldi getting his draw with the chair-swinging Evans, and Humberto triumphing over Otto Kuss. With both of them coming back this week with two newcomers who have been described as colorful grapplers, Kallio is looking forward to another full house.

MEHRE REPORTED OUT AT MISSISSIPPI

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Nashville Tennessean said today it heard from a "generally reliable source" that Harry Mehre will relinquish his coaching job at the University of Mississippi February 1.

Among those who have been considered to replace him the newspaper said are Vernon (Catfish) Smith, former All-American at the University of Georgia, and Murray Warmath, former University of Tennessee and Mississippi State assistant coach, until he entered the armed forces.

Mehre has been football coach and athletic director at Mississippi since 1937. He was line coach at Georgia from 1924 to 1928, and then head coach there from 1928 to 1937.

MISSISSIPPI STATE UPSETS FAVORED TIGERS, 27 TO 20

Maroons Score Late In Fourth Period To Beat Louisiana State

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Statistics of the Mississippi State-Louisiana State football game here tonight:

Opponents fumbles recovered	2	3
Yards lost by penalties	20	15

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Mississippi State upset a favored Louisiana State team, 27-20, tonight, in a game that left 35,000 fans uncertain up to the last few seconds.

Scoring was zig-zag throughout the game, with each marker putting one or the other team in the lead in nearly every period. Five minutes from game-end the score was tied at 20-20. An alert Stater grabbed a Bengal pass and State took the final lead.

The entire game was marked by frequent fumbles by both sides, but the Mississippians matched Louisiana in every department, including the vaunted Louisiana State running attack.

A minor leg injury may have helped cost the favored Tigers the game and a shot at some bowl meeting. When the Bengals tied up the count in the fourth stanza, Gene "Red" Knight limped out to convert from placement, was way off his timing and the miss left the count 20-20.

Billy Howard, Maroon end, scored the winning touchdown, leaping to intercept a pass by Louisiana State's Y. A. Tittle on the Louisiana 30 and zig-zagging to cross the line.

The Maroons lost no time going into action, marching and passing their way from their own 25 to cross the Tiger goal in less than six minutes after the game opened, with a Bengal interception in between evened up by a Bengal fumble.

State ran and passed to the Louisiana State 15. Ray Coates intercepted a heave by Dave Robinson and returned to his 14, but Dub Garrett recovered Y. A. Tittle's fumble on the next play on the Louisiana State 8 and two plays later D. B. "Mutt" Floyd took a Robinson pass for a touchdown. M. T. Burress' placement missed, and State led, 6-0.

An aroused Tiger eleven, led by Knight, pushed from the Louisiana 35 to the State 26, but State held and took over, and both began trading fumbles and the ball.

The Tigers took a kick at midfield and went air-minded as the second period began. Tittle heaved two in succession to Clyde Lindsey, and two plays later threw 25 to Dan Sandifer for a first Louisiana State score. Knight's placement was good and Louisiana State led, 7-6.

But Mississippi State regained the lead in the same second period, after a march from their own 34, featuring a 34-yard run around end by Harper Davis, who then raced untouched around end for a touchdown. Burress' placement was good this time, and Mississippi State led, 13-7, at the half.

Tittle tied up the score 13-13 early in the third quarter on a two-yard plunge. His passes and Fullback Bill Montgomery's slamming had carried the Bengals there from their own 39. Knight's placement was good and the Tigers led.

Less than four minutes later, however, the Mississippians were back in the lead again after only five plays by Don Robinson and Graham Bramlett, the latter twisting away from four tacklers, including one who ripped his shirt, between his own 37-yard line and the Tiger Zero stripe. Burress' placement counted.

In the razzle-dazzle fourth quarter, Louisiana State marched from its own 25 down to the State one-foot line on alternate pushes by Dan Sandifer, Montgomery and Ray Coates, and Coates went over. Knight's placement was low, and the count was tied 20-all.

Tittle opened an aerial attack from his own 30. End Billy Howard of State grabbed his first heave and was off to pay territory. Burress' placement was again good.

With the visitors leading 27-20, Louisiana State again aimed skyward and again the Maroons intercepted, this time another Tittle long throw gathered in by Maroon Curt Hilderbrand on Louisiana State's 35. Mississippi State was down on Louisiana State's 19 as the game ended.

MICHIGAN BEATEN BY NAVY, 33 TO 7

Middies Capitalize On Opponents' Mistakes To Win Easily

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Navy's remarkable opportunists answered some of their critics today by crushing Michigan's spirited Wolverines 33 to 7.

Thus the Middies surpassed mighty Army's 28-7 victory over Michigan by a margin of five points.

Again the Middies capitalized on the opposition's mistakes, but there was nothing indecisive in the way they went after scores on almost every opportunity.

They ran more like a big league club than in any previous game, made few mistakes and wasted no time in going over for each of their five touchdowns.

Still alertly hawking the ball, as they have all season, the Middies went on their scoring sprees after picking up a wild Michigan lateral, blocking one punt and causing another to be kicked only eight yards, intercepting a pass and picking up a fumble.

For a half, Michigan made a close game of it, holding Navy to a 13-7 advantage, but the Middies broke things wide open in the third period by scoring twice in the last three minutes.

A mistake by Michigan put the Middies in position to drive home well along in the opening period. Henry Fonde made a wild pitch to Pete Elliott on an attempted lateral on Michigan's 21. Navy's Dick Duden touching the ball just before it went out of bounds.

Tony Minisi, hero of the Penn and Notre Dame games for Navy, caught Michigan's defense flat-footed with a left handed pass to Leon Bramlett for the score.

Navy took to the air with Bruce Smith throwing to Duden for 16 yards and then tossing to Clyde Scott from the 11 for the touchdown on the first play of the second period.

Michigan made its bid during the remainder of that quarter pulling up to a 7-13 status and failing on two additional scoring chances.

A crowd of 59,114 witnessed the game.

The Red Shield Junior League has a membership of five teams at the present and indications are that one more will enter the circuit for younger boys at the present time. Spratford's Pharmacy, Red Shield Club, L. T. I., St. Matthew's and Monroe Recreation Center.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES WIN FROM TULSA, 12 TO 6

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 10.—(AP)—All-American Bob Fenimore's speed and passing overcame a spirited University of Tulsa line today, and the Oklahoma Aggies edged the Golden Hurricane 12-6 for the Missouri Valley football championship before a record crowd of 19,000 persons.

The blond Fenimore, playing almost all of the battle's fought game, scored the first touchdown and later added to Bob Neil Armstrong's touchdown.

It was to be the last game of the season for the Aggies, but the victory put the Oklahoma A. & M. eleven at the top of the Valley standings with only one defeat in five conference starts. Tulsa, which has won four and lost one, was in second place.

TECH RALLIES TO WIN FROM DEMONS, 7 TO 2

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Louisiana Tech Bulldogs of Ruston became Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference champions today, defeating the Northwestern State Demons, 7 to 2.

The game was played on a rain soaked field before 3,000 fans. It was Northwestern's homecoming event.

The Demons scored a safety early in the first period when they smothered Dalrymple, Tech end, who tried a kick in his own end zone. Tech scored in the last minutes of the game soon after getting the ball on the Northwestern 17 when a Demon punt was good for only 15 yards.

TEXAS RALLIES TO BEST BAYLOR, 21-14

AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Held in check during the first half and forced to come from behind twice, the Texas Longhorns came surging back for two quick-period touchdowns to eke out a thrilling 21-14 victory over Baylor's heavy Bears before 30,000 fans here today.

Baylor's burly line, which had shackled its opponents on the ground all season, was out played by the hard-charging Texas forward wall and yielded 149 yards rushing—but the Longhorns still had to rely on Bobby Lane's passes to get up their scores. Then, Baylor outgained the Steers 181 yards to 88 through the air with big Jack Price doing most of the tossing.

The Bears struck for their first tally when the game was only five minutes old. Bobby Griffing passing 38 yards to End Stuart Gordon. Louis Leal converted. Texas tied the score in the second quarter when End Dale Schwartzkopf blocked Price's punt on the Baylor 9 and Layne passed over the goal line to All-America Hubert Bechtol. Layne converted, and the score was 7-7 at half time.

Baylor went ahead again early in the third period when Price shot a 45-yard pass to the speedy Stoney Corton, who took the ball on the 10 and raced over untouched. Leal converted.

Texas immediately drove 74 yards for a touchdown, with Layne passing and running to the Baylor 4 and George Graham plunging over. Layne's conversion deadlocked the count again at 14-14.

TEXAS TECH UPSETS HORNED FROGS, 12-0

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Texas Techs fighting Red Raiders, after scrimmaging a favored Texas Christian squad for three quarters, counted twice in the fourth period here this afternoon to chalk up a stunning 12-0 upset over the Frogs before a home-coming crowd of 10,000 screaming fans.

The Raiders, with big Walt Schlinkman, Tech's all-American fullback candidate carrying the burden of the day's chores, played the favored Southwest Conference gridders to a standstill and only four times let the Frogs pass the midfield stripe.

The fighting ranters turned T. C. U.'s big threat, Leon Joslin's aerial wizardry, into the Froggies downfall. Little Bennie Tidwell, 140 pound left half, intercepted one of Norman Cox's heaves on his own 30 early in the fourth frame and raced down the sidelines for the first Tech touchdown.

Five minutes later a punt exchange left the Frogs in another hole. Tech set up a scoring opportunity when big Otis Turner, Tech center, intercepted one of Joslin's passes on the T. C. U. 35. Turner rambled down to the Frog 20 before he was roped in.

LIONS MEET BYRD THURSDAY NIGHT

Postponed Game Slated At Shreveport; Neville Has Open Date

The Neville High School Tigers have an open date this week before closing the season against the Bastrop football team here next week, but the Ouachita High School Lions will be active, invading Shreveport to a Class AA conference game with the Byrd Yellow Jackets.

Ouachita was slated to play Byrd last Friday and rest this week before a Thanksgiving day game with Bolton of Alexandria, but the game was postponed because of rain until next Thursday at Shreveport.

Coach Bill Ruple's Neville Tigers last Friday night trounced Tallulah here, 45 to 0, for their sixth victory in seven starts this season and it was the sixth team the Bengals had held scoreless. Only Ruston, who beat Neville 13-6, has beaten the locals and also been able to score against them.

The Lion-Byrd game this week will find the Yellow Jackets favored to beat the Ouachita eleven, but the Lions are planning to do their best to upset the Jackets if possible and hope for something in the way of a miracle to put them back in the Class AA title race.

Ouachita's title aspirations faded in the face of their only defeat of the season at the hands of Fair Park here two weeks ago, 15 to 6. But the Lions hope to be able to stop Byrd and then see the Jackets go ahead and beat Fair Park on Thanksgiving to throw the north Louisiana championship scramble into a three-way tie between Ouachita, Byrd, and Fair Park.

PENNSY TOPPLES COLUMBIA, 32-7

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Columbia's "fancy dan" football Lions were toppled from the nation's undefeated ranks today by a shifty Penn outfit that has been beaten only by Navy.

Outmanned and overpowered by a horde of enemy material, the underdog Lions scored the first time they got their hands on the ball with Gene Rossides passing Penn dizzy, but after that never had a chance and the Quakers rolled to a 32-7 victory to end Columbia's winning run at six straight, for the entertainment of some 63,000 fans in Franklin Field.

Behind 7-0 in the first six minutes of play after Rossides heaved 6 for 6 for 63 yards and the touchdown, the Quakers started to go. George Savitsky, a great tackle and Ball Hawk, broke through three times to recover two fumbles and block a kick, and each time the Quakers capitalized on the break to roll up a 20-7 halftime lead.

Cashing in on these opportunities, as well as a couple of other assorted chances, Bob Evans, who learned his aerial technique as a GI bomber gunner over Europe during the war, completed eight out of 16 overhead tries for 116 yards. Three of his pitches chalked up the first half tallies and fourth produced a fourth touchdown early in the third quarter, before he bowed out for the day. Three of the touchdowns throws went to his special battery mate, Frank Jenkins.

With the Columbia line tiring against the ponderous charges of the Penn forwards as the game wore on, the Quakers rolled up 167 yards rushing to a net of 14 for Columbia, although the Lions "outsailed" their rival throughout the air, 166 to 123.

PENN STATE STOPS TEMPLE OWLS, 27-0

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP)—With the scent of Orange Bowl blossoms in their nostrils a power laden Penn State football tam crushed Temple today, 27-0, to send the Owls toppling from the ranks of the nation's unbeaten grid teams.

The Nittany Lions completely outplayed the hapless visitors, with three of the four touchdowns being scored by linemen who took advantage of every possible break. The game was played in a driving rainstorm.

Bronco Kosanovich, a stalwart center, took a lateral and raced 24 yards for the first score and later fell on a fumble behind the Temple goal line for his second touchdown.

Marino Marchi, a regular tackle, recovered a blocked punt and staggerd across the line for another tally, whil Joe Tepsic, leading point scorer in Pennsylvania, boosted his season's total to 49 points by going 23 yards for another touchdown.

A capacity crowd of 16,000 cheered as State kept the play in Temple territory for virtually the entire first half, and even in the last quarters The Nittany Lion reserves were good enough to check any scoring threats by the Owl gridders.

Tepsic put on a great show during the first half, skirting the ends, dashing through holes opened by his vastly superior forward wall, and punting with uncanny accuracy. Once the lead was obtained Tepsic rested, while Al Bellas and Larry Cooney took up the burden on the offensive.

OREGON STATE WINS FROM WASHINGTON, 7-6

SEATTLE, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Beavers of Oregon State College considerably dampened the Rose Bowl hopes of the University of Washington today, fighting back from the shadow of their own goal posts to score a fourth quarter touchdown and a 7 to 6 Pacific Coast Conference football victory.

The Huskies, who walloped the Beavers 13-0 in an earlier game, were not definitely eliminated from the bowl picture by the defeat, which, however, turned the conference into a wide open race.

Just once did the Beavers, who had broken up two of three Washington threats, get the ball into enemy territory. They made no muffs of the opportunity, passing, sweeping the ends and crushing the center of the tough line until sub Halfback Dick Gray lugged the ball into pay territory on a three-yard plunge.

The crowd of 28,000, shivering in a rain that washed down through the final half, saw a substitute end, Stan McGuire, kick the victory point with Gray holding the ball.

BROWNELL SAYS G. O. P. STRONGER

Says Detroit Election Blow At 'Unholy New Deal Alliance'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Herbert Brownell, Jr., asserted today the Detroit mayoralty election "afforded conclusive proof that the unholy alliance between the new deal and the radical elements does not have the approval of the American electorate."

Nationally, the Republican national chairman said, the G. O. P. "strengthened" its position for the 1946 Congressional campaign.

The result in New York City, Brownell said, means—if it represents any change at all—that "Tammany is once more the dominant political force in that city."

"That, perhaps," he added, "may be one reason for the jubilation expressed by the chairman of the Democratic National committee."

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan had stated last Tuesday night before all the votes were counted that the election of Democrat William O'Dwyer as mayor of New York would have "an important bearing on the 1946 and 1948 election prospects."

In his first comment on Tuesday's voting, Brownell said in a formal statement:

"When the votes were counted the party had retained practically everything it had before, and had gained several strategic offices previously held by Democrats."

Brownell said that while the fight for control of Detroit was "conducted ostensibly on a non-partisan basis Richard Frankensteen, the CIO-PAC candidate who ran with Democratic backing, was defeated by a margin approaching 60,000 votes."

After asserting the reelection of Mayor Edward J. Jeffries over Frankensteen proved the people disapproved of what he termed an unholy alliance between the new deal and the radical elements, he added:

"If there is any city in the country where such an alliance might be expected to be effective, Detroit is that city. The results speak for themselves."

In support of his contention that the Republican party had strengthened its position, Brownell said the GOP had been victorious in all three special Congressional elections since President Truman took office. These were in the second Montana district June 5 and the fourth New Jersey and 24th Illinois last Tuesday. The Montana result was an upset for the Democrats.

"It is perhaps significant," said the Republican chairman, "that in the Montana election last June the Democratic candidate campaigned with the slogan 'Elect Me To Support Truman,' and in the recent New Jersey election similar appeals were made on behalf of the Democratic candidate."

course, is the poverty of a country which has waged and lost a war. Japanese are making dire predictions about food conditions this coming winter. It follows that other essentials are scarce.

Pants are stolen from the bath because there are not enough to go around and because hungry people need them longer—or the money they will bring on the black market.

There was a black market in Japan before American troops arrived, so U. S. Army goods reaching the black market merely increase the supply.

This raises the question of what the net impact of American occupation is to be, and what it may be blamed for, rightly or wrongly, in the end.

Japanese militarism is being squashed; the people are getting a strange new freedom; the oligarchs of finance are being dehorned—and by all accounts the Japanese seem to accept it, even applaud it in some cases.

But Japan is hungry and will get hungrier.

Only this week came the first instance of active Japanese resentment. A Japanese sailor slugged a girl who was waiting for her GI date. Then a couple of ex-Kamikaze's tried to assassinate Home Minister Horikiri because they had been sleeping outside in the rain.

As unbeaten Japanese fighting men return to civilian life, swelling the unemployed and the hungry, such signs of unrest may multiply and become a tide.

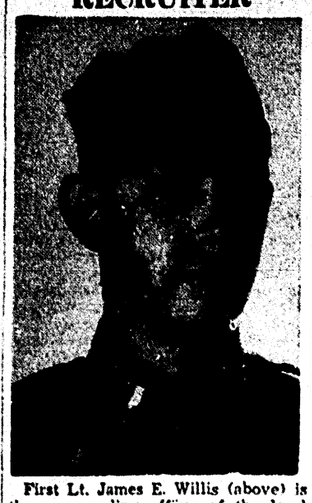
RECRUITER



First Lt. James E. Willis (above) is the commanding officer of the local U. S. army recruiting station. Lieutenant Willis first opened the local office in the Post Office Building on October 1 but since then has moved to larger office space in the Courthouse Building. As sub-station commander, he has complete charge of all army recruiting activities in this area, which includes 11 parishes in northeast Louisiana. A recruiting office is maintained only in Monroe, but recruiting teams of non-commissioned officers are sent from time to time to all surrounding towns to acquaint the male population with the benefits and advantages of enlisting in the regular army. Lieutenant Willis reminds all veterans, who have been out more than 20 days, of the deadline date of November 21, the last day they can reenlist to hold their grade and receive the reenlistment furlough. All veterans, also all young men between 17 and 35, are urged to contact his office for information on the benefits and advantages of enlisting or reenlisting in the regular army of the United States.

ment is made. Possibly in connection with this, Mr. Truman conferred today with a group of American diplomatic representatives here from the Middle East.

Another question which may come up is that of Anglo-American negotiations over a United States loan of about $4,000,000,000 to Britain. British officials said Attlee would discuss this with Lord Keynes, one of the Principle British negotiators, in the next day or so.

Diplomatic officials were inclined to agree, in private talks to reporters, with a Russian newspaper assertion that relations between the western powers and Russia would be under serious test until the Russians find out (1) Anglo-American plans for international handling of the bomb, and (2) what part—if any—Russia has in them.

Mr. Truman has called for "outlawing" the bomb and Attlee has talked about putting it in the custody of the United Nations. But neither has outlined yet a specific course for its future control or for handling the basic scientific knowledge of atomic energy which America, Britain and Canada share.

Diplomats here speculated that the president and prime ministers would consider seriously proposals to share the knowledge with other countries provided all agree to submit to United Nations inspection to keep bomb manufacture under control.

This immediately raised a question whether Russia, with her tight system of secrecy, would agree to any inspection or to any extension of the authority of the United Nations over member countries.

Diplomatic officials predict that, in line with general Big-Three practice, Generalissimo Stalin and Foreign Commissar Molotov will be informed of the conclusions reached here as soon as they are made.

Russia was not invited to the present conference because she did not share in the development of the atomic bomb. Her attitude has been stated pointedly by Molotov. He said a few days ago that the Soviet Union would get atomic energy and that it could not be kept secret.

There were no immediate estimates of casualties on either side.

Advices from Jogjakarta, where 100,000 armed Indonesians are reported concentrated, declared not-headed Indonesian youths were already marching toward Soerabaja shouting "fight for freedom!"

Indonesian "President" Soekarno had gone to Jogjakarta to address a youth rally, which broke up when news of the British attack was received. Soekarno was expected to return to Batavia tomorrow.

There were no indications yet that the Soerabaja battle had set off any widespread outbreaks throughout Java, as Indonesian leaders had predicted might result.

Late tonight Allied troops used mortars in a short but severe clash with Indonesians in the Kramat sector of Batavia, and firing was heard behind the Hotel Des Indes.

Indonesian "Foreign Minister" Soebardjo said he had received a "private and unofficial" report from the telephone manager at Soerabaja, saying the exchange was being abandoned.

The telephone manager reported Indonesian families were fleeing the city and carrying out the "scorched earth" policy, he said.

The British said they were shelling Indonesian "strong points."

The British moved into the city from its perimeter and the do's area in a "low advance." They did not specify the extent of their gains but an Indonesian source said the Britan artillery had pushed through two suburbs.

Soebardjo said the Republican cabinet had given "full authority" for decisions at Soerabaja to the Indonesian governor, Dr. Soerio, feeling that he was best qualified to judge the local situation and the feelings of the people.

A British statement admitted that the arms in possession of the Indonesians belonged to guerilla and Japanese troops and added 20,000 of them are still to be rounded up in the Soerabaja area.

In a series of notes and statements before the attack the British maintained that the Indonesians had violated the mandate of the United Nations in recognizing principles of war and interference in the mopping up of the defeated Japanese.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Speculative demand for low-quoted utilities, some of which came out in blocks running to 30,000 shares at peaks for almost nine years, again high-lighted today's stock market and tended to obscure declining tendencies displayed by many pivotals.

Optimism over tax relief and reported plans of some companies to seek amendments to recapitalization programs which would benefit holders of common stocks still served as a spur for the "penny" performers in the power group.

A small drop in General Motors' third quarter net failed to weaken this issue although it was a shade lower most of the proceedings due to the strike threat in the automotive field.

The two-hour turnover was around 1,000,000 shares, one of the largest for a Saturday this year. Near the close prices generally were notably irregular.

Bonds were narrow. Commodities, especially rye futures, showed strength.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—Cotton futures market was strong today, prices gaining as much as 50 cents a bale. Trading was active and most of the demand was attributed to mill and other industrial users. Hedging pressure was light and despite the coming week-end and the fact that the prices were at new highs for the season profit taking was small.

Futures closed 5 to 55 cents a bale higher.

REV. J. E. MOORE TO LEAVE CITY

Will Preach Farewell Sermons Today At Nazarene Church

Rev. J. E. Moore will preach his final sermon at the Church of the Nazarene today. He has resigned and will make his home in Dallas, Tex. In the year he has been here he has made a wide circle of friends who regret his leaving which is due to impaired physical condition. He will be succeeded here by Rev. E. T. Harris of Alexandria.

Rev. Moore the past year has been honored by election as chairman of the local Ministerial Association, in which he has been most faithful and progressive, local pastors assure.

The church here urgently sought Rev. Moore to continue here another year but he declined because of an injury he received in an auto accident recently.

The annual District Assembly of the Nazarene churches was held in the First Methodist Church the past week. Dr. H. V. Miller, general superintendent, presided at all sessions held here, and the closing service saw 10 young men ordained to the ministry.

Officers of the District Assembly were elected Thursday as follows: Rev. Elbert Dodd, district superintendent; Rev. Ina Akin, re-elected district treasurer; Rev. Dan Perriman, Bossier City, director of young people's work; Mrs. Elbert Dodd, president of women's work for the district.

TECH ENROLLMENT SHOWS BIG GAIN

RUSTON, La., Nov. 10.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's enrollment figures for the first peace-time registration in almost four years showed a sharp increase as 1,038 students began work this week, an unofficial check of the registrar's list showed.

At the close of the regular registration period Wednesday, November 7, a total of 602 women and 436 men had signed the school rolls, marking a gain of more than 30 per cent in civilian enrollment since the last trimester, and the largest non-military total since the fall of 1942.

Biggest gain was shown by men students, with an increase of nearly 90 per cent over the preceding term's 231 civilians being chalked up. Veterans accounted for a big portion of this lead, as 136 former service men got back to their studies.

Enrollment for veterans will continue for some time, Dr. Claybrook Cottingham, president, announced, in order to allow ex-service men to enter school as they are released from the armed forces.

FORD'S EMPLOYES VOTE FOR STRIKE

Agree To Take That Action If Necessary To Gain Demands

(By Associated Press)

Ford workers have joined the other members of the motor industry's "Big Three" by voting for strike action—if necessary—to support union 30 per cent wage increase demands.

The National Labor Relations Board announced today (Saturday) that Ford employes in Detroit had voted nearly 11 to 1 in favor of a strike. Earlier, General Motors workers voted nearly 6 to 1 for a strike, while the Chrysler Corp. ratio was 3 to 1.

Leaders of the United Auto Workers (C. I. O.) emphasized, however, that "every effort" would be made to settle the dispute peaceably.

Prior to the NLRB announcement, the U. A. W.-C. I. O. rejected a General Motors offer for an eight to 10 per cent "cost of living" increase, branding it "pure economic poison." Previously the union turned down a G. M. proposal for a 45-hour work week plus a six per cent wage increase.

At adjournment Friday of a union-General Motors wage negotiation meeting, Walter P. Reuther, U. A. W.-C. I. O. vice president, commented, "we're exactly where we were • • • three months ago."

H. W. Anderson, G. M. vice president, asked whether he was optimistic over the outcome of negotiations, replied, "we can't be optimistic with a strike hanging over our heads."

In New Orleans, future plans of Boat-Builder Andrew J. Higgins were in doubt. Although stockholders of Higgins Industries, Inc., voted unanimously this weekend to put the concern through out-of-court liquidation, a company announcement said Higgins and Secretary-Treasurer Morris Gottesman, designated liquidators, would carry out existing contracts if possible.

Higgins declined to expand on the announcement, except to give this reply to a question:

"You asked me if Andrew Higgins is through in New Orleans. Andrew Higgins is not through. Period."

Gottesman said "existing contracts" meant an estimated $5,000,000 worth of contracts on which work has begun.

Higgins announced last week he would permanently close down three strike-bound New Orleans plants which had boasted $40,000,000 worth of contracts for peacetime pleasure and commercial boats because a contract dispute between Higgins and American Federation of Labor unions had placed him in "an impossible position."

William L. Donnels, A. F. of L. Metal and Building Trades Union publicity chairman, said the unions would press for a congressional investigation of the plant shutdowns, and commented "I think Higgins is still playing to the galleries." Meanwhile, the nation's total of workers idle as a result of labor disputes remained around 275,000.

Control of three Ohio oil refineries, seized by presidential order Oct. 5, was relinquished by the navy. About 50 other plants remain under navy control.

The three plants were among those seized after C. I. O. Oil Workers struck for a 30 per cent wage increase. Their owners, the Standard Oil Company of Ohio at Lima, the Canton Refining Division of the Central Pipeline Company, and the Sun Oil Company at Toledo, had asked return of the properties, stating there no longer was any labor dispute.

San Francisco housewives found bread scarce as A. F. of L. Bakery Wagon Drivers employed at the Lagendorf Bakeries, producers of 20 per cent of the city's bread supply, struck as the result of a wage dispute.

Apparently settled were a dispute between the city of Louisville and 250 building supply truck drivers, and a month-long strike of 2,000 A. F. of L. Baltimore Carpenters involved in a wage dispute with contractors. In Louisville A. F. of L. Teamsters Union spokesmen said the drivers would return to work Tuesday at a 10-cent hourly wage increase.

THREE PAYLORS ARE IN SERVICE

Edward W., John H. And Audrey L. Have Made Good Records

Edward W. Paylor, SM 2/c USN, called his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paylor from San Pedro, Calif., and informed them that he is in the States after 11 months on duty in the Pacific. He left the States Dec. 3, 1944, and was in the campaign in the Solomons, Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Was with the amphibious forces that landed occupation forces in Japan on V-J day. His ship landed the First cavalry and later transported the 41st division from the tip island in the Philippines to Hiroshima, where they ran into a typhoon and were endangered by mines.

Signalman Paylor enlisted Sept. 3, 1942. He first saw service in the invasion of Sicily and Tunisia and aided in transporting troops as far north as St. Johns, Newfoundland, and as far south as Rio de Janeiro.

In December, 1943, his ship was transferred to the Pacific and participated in the invasion of the Marshall Islands in May, 1944. He got a 30-day leave and was transferred to the U. S. S. Cecil, an attack transport on which he is now stationed. He is hopeful for a discharge soon. He is the youngest of three brothers in service.

Another brother is John H. Paylor Jr., SK 2/c, with the 32nd stevedore unti of the Seabees now near Tientsin China. His wife and young son reside in Monroe.

Pvt. Audrey L. Paylor, oldest brother, entered armed service in the army Feb. 21, 1945. He took basic training at Camp Maxey in the heavy weapon company where he received an expert rifle badge for making the highest score of his company in rifle shooting. He then was transferred to quartermaster corps and took advanced training at Fort F. E. Warren and at Camp Carson. After graduating as first class clerk, he was transferred to the transportation corps and after a 15-day furlough at home he reported to Camp Beale, Sept. 17, for duty overseas and is now in Manila. He was bookkeeper for F. Strauss and Son for several years. His wife and son reside on Milhaven road.

Average ownership of life insurance per family in the United States has increased 25 per cent in the last ten years.

Building Permits

Permission was granted to H. [illegible] Harper to erect a one-story frame building to be used for a store and residence, located at 801 George Street. The total cost will not exceed $3,500 and 1 day labor is to be used.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

BARRING TARZAN'S PATH TO THE WATERS OF THE OASIS STOOD A HUGE AND POWERFUL HYENA. THE APE-MAN HESITATED. SUDDENLY THE BEAST LEAPED FOR HIS THROAT!

THE APE-MAN DODGED--BUT NOT QUICKLY ENOUGH. THE SLASHING FANGS RIPPED A DEEP GASH IN HIS ARM.

BLEEDING PROFUSELY TARZAN BACKED AWAY. NOW THE APE-MAN WAS FACED WITH A DUAL DILEMMA.

TO SPEND HIS ENERGIES IN DIRECT COMBAT WITH THE BEAST MIGHT KEEP HIM FROM REACHING THE OASIS YET IF THE BEAST WERE NOT KILLED QUICKLY THE FLOWING WOUND WOULD SAP HIS STRENGTH.

WITHOUT WARNING, THE BEAST SPRANG AGAIN!

HOOAHH.

THE JUNGLE LORD MET THE CHARGE HEAD-ON. HIS FINGERS CLOSED ON THE ANIMAL'S THROAT.

THE SNARLING HYENA STRUGGLED TO WRENCH ITSELF FREE.

IN HIS EFFORT TO RETAIN HIS GRIP, THE WEAKENED APE-MAN FELL HEAVILY.

IN A FLASH THE BEAST WAS UPON HIM--SLASHING, TEARING HIS FLESH. TARZAN REACHED FOR HIS KNIFE.

WITH A SUPREME EFFORT HE STRUCK ONCE, TWICE--AND THE HYENA LAY STILL.

THE APE-MAN ROSE UNSTEADILY. ON THE HORIZON, THE OASIS DANCED BEFORE HIS EYES. NOW HIS GOAL SEEMED HOPELESSLY DISTANT.

WEAKENED FROM LOSS OF BLOOD, UNUTTERABLY WEARY, HIS IRON WILL FORCED HIM TO GO ON--OR PERISH IN HIS TRACKS!

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

THE PYGMIES HAVE FLED. GENTLY, JIM BANDAGES LIL'S ARM: "YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE COME ON THIS DANGEROUS MISSION." SHE SMILES BRAVELY: "TRY TO GET RID OF ME."

JIM EASES THE DYING MOMENTS OF THE PYGMY CHIEF AND IS AMAZED TO HEAR HIM MUTTER, "YOU GOOD MAN. WHY DID BULLET-HEAD GIVE US GUNS AND LIQUOR TO KILL YOU?"

11-11-45

JIM PUZZLES OVER THE PYGMY'S WORDS AS HE SETS OFF A DYNAMITE CHARGE, REMOVING THE PRIMITIVE ROAD BLOCK.

Copr. 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

WITHOUT FURTHER TROUBLE THEY REACH THE PAGANO MINES. JIM GRINS: "SOMETHING TELLS ME WE AREN'T EXACTLY WELCOME HERE, MY GIRL."

NEXT WEEK: BULLET-HEAD.

FLASH GORDON

Registered U. S Patent Office

DICTO, CHIEF OF THE MONGO BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION, REPORTS THE BAD NEWS: "HERE'S THE LOCKED CELL WHERE WE FOUND OUR WITNESS, TRAITO, STRANGLED -- WITH KANG'S SEAL ON THE BODY!"

WITH MINIRADAR AND SONOSCOPE, MBI SCIENCE SOON LOCATES THE SECRET PASSAGE KANG'S TORTURER USED FOR HIS VENGEANCE MISSION.

BUT THE NEWLY DISCOVERED HONEYCOMB OF PRISON PASSAGES GIVES NO CLUE TO KANG'S PRESENT HIDEOUT. IT LEADS INTO THE SEWERS. DICTO SAYS, GRIMLY, "FROM HERE THE KILLER COULD HAVE GONE ANYWHERE UNDER MINGO CITY."

MEANTIME, EVILA PAYS A SURPRISE VISIT TO HER TWIN SISTER: "WE KNOW FLASH WAS HERE. WHAT DID HE KNOW? -- WHAT DID YOU TELL HIM?" DARLIA SAYS SADLY, "NOTHING. I DON'T EVER WANT TO KNOW WHERE YOU ARE HIDING. BUT, DARLING, PLEASE GIVE THIS UP -- LEAVE KANG!"

Copr. [illegible] Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved

EVILA ESCAPES JUST AHEAD OF MBI MEN WATCHING THE HOUSE. "WHERE'D SHE GO? WHERE'S SHE HIDING?" DARLIA SOBS, "I DON'T KNOW. I CAN'T TELL YOU!"

DICTO ARRIVES: "SHE MUST KNOW SOMETHING. PUT HER UNDER VERIGAS AND GET THE TRUTH." BUT FLASH WINS DARLIA'S UNDYING GRATITUDE AND PERHAPS LOVE WHEN HE SAYS: "NO. I BELIEVE HER, AND I'LL NOT MAKE A GIRL BETRAY HER SISTER."

IT WAS? GEE! WELL, IT WASN'T QUITE THAT WAY IN MY HISTORY BOOK...

AS VOLTAIRE IS ALWAYS SAYING:"...HISTORIES... ...ARE BUT FABLES THAT HAVE BEEN AGREED UPON."

BUT YOU MUST REMEMBER, ONE CAN LEARN A LOT FROM FABLES --AND THEY MAKE VERY INTERESTING READING..

BUT, TWIFFY! WHO WAS TH' GUY THAT SHOT YOU? SOME BANDIT?

NO--JUST A LAZY CHAP DOWN THE ROAD WHO THOUGHT HE SHOULD HAVE MY HOUSE...

BUT HE DIDN'T EVER LIVE HERE-- WHAT BECAME OF HIM?

ODD THING-- RUNNING THROUGH THE ORCHARD ON A DARK NIGHT--LOW BRANCH-- BROKE HIS NECK-- IT WAS SAID THAT HE HAD SEEN A GHOST...

OH-OH! WHY, TWIFFY! YOU DIDN'T...

HO-HO! TALKIN' TO YERSELF, EH? JUST A WITTY-BITTY DIRL! WHERE'S YER DOLLY? AND WHO'S TWIFFY? HAW-HAW! TWIFFY! THAT'S RICH!

OH--I--- I DIDN'T HEAR YOU COMIN', MR. EX--

IF I'D KNOWN TWIFFY WAS HERE I'D HAVE KNOCKED! BUT I'M INTRUDIN'-- EXCUSE ME! HEY! WHERE'S MY HAT?

HE DOES NOT BELIEVE IN GHOSTS-- SO HE CAN NOT SEE OR HEAR ME ...

EH? WOT TH'...?

W-W-WHO DONE THAT?

TWIFFY DID

GEE! LOOK AT HIM GO! HE SURE MOVES FAST, FOR SUCH A BIG MAN!

PERHAPS THE SPIRIT MOVED HIM--YES... THIS SPIRIT, EH?
